The Pope's Allocution Before the Council of Bishops.

The Church Declared to be Stronger than Heaven.

A Violent Scene in the Corps Legislatif.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS QUESTION.

Reported Ratification of the Chinese Treaty.

THE ECUMENICAL COUNCIL.

An Allocution by the Pope—The Church "Stronger Even than Heaven."

ROME, Dec. 10.—The Pope delivered an allocution before the assembled Bishops. He expressed his satisfaction in being able to open the Council on the day which had been fixed, and at finding that the Bishops came in such numbers to aid the Holy See, helped by the Holy Spirit. False human science and impiety were never before so strong as at the present day; for they were well organized and hid themselves behind pretended aspirations for liberty. But there was nothing to fear, because the Church was stronger even than Heaven. But time would remedy the present evils. The Holy Father concluded with an invocation to the Holy Spirit, the Blessed Virgin, and Saints Peter and Paul.

EUROPE.

Stormy Scenes in the French Chambers—A Demand for the Impeachment of M. Forcade—The Yellow Book.

PARIS, Dec. 10—Evening. — The Corps Legislatif had another stormy session to-day. An Opposition Deputy demanded the impeachment of M. FORCADE, the Minister of the Interior. Scenes of violence followed, such as have never before been witnessed in the Chamber. The sitting was adjourned amid great excitement. The French official Yellow Book has just been published. It gives a favorable account of the condition of France, and states that her relations with the foreign Powers and their relations with one another are still more amicable since the conference on the dispute between Greece and Turkey was held in Paris. The situation of the North German Confederation is not such as to cause France to change her attitude. In Italy order is gaining ground in spite of revolutionary movements. The Book makes an important declaration in regard to the Ecumenical Council. "This body," it says, "is beyond the pale of the political Powers; so the Emperor is resolved not to use his incontestible right to intervene in its deliberations; and through their representatives all the Catholic Powers approve this course." The Turko-Egyptian question is reviewed, and the efforts made to reconcile the Sultan and the Viceroy are dwelt upon at length. American affairs are treated of to the following effect: The advent of General GRANT to the Presidency of the United States has made no change in the good relations existing between the two nations. France has assisted the efforts of the Washington Government to reëstablish peace between Spain and the Pacific Republics; but the sympathy shown by the United States and South America with the Cuban rebellion has unfortunately complicated the settlement of the above question. Winding up this subject the book says, "The French Government has no reason to violate the laws of neutrality. The only aim of this Government is to develop peacefully its foreign relations and guard the interests of France."....The prosecution of the Rappel was caused by a libelous article, written by CHARLES HUGO, not against him, as was incorrectly reported. The case has terminated in conviction, and CHARLES HUGO has been sentenced to a fine of 1,000 francs, with four months' imprisonment; and the publisher of the journal to 1,000 francs fine and two months' imprisonment.

Ratification of the Chinese Treaty—The Suez Canal—Mr. Peabody's Remains—Miscellaneous.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Mr. BURLINGAME, the Chief of the Chinese Embassy, has received information that the treaty made by him with the United States has been ratified by the Chinese Government....J. MACLEARY BROWN, the Secretary of the Chinese Embassy, is on his way to Washington from Pekin, via California....The steamship Brazilian, of this port, which was built expressly for the Suez Canal traffic, has been found to draw too much water. A dispatch from Port Said announces that she attempted to make the passage a day or two ago, but was obliged to discharge half her cargo to get through. The body of Mr. PEABODY will be removed from Westminster Abbey to Her Majesty's ship Monarch to-day. Crowds of people are at the tomb paying their last respects to the remains of the great philanthropist.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—A report comes from Madrid that it is confidently believed there that President GRANT intends to seize Cuba.

LISBON, Dec. 10.—The Duke of SALDANHA having been pressed by the King to accept the post of Ambassador of Portugal at Paris, positively declines, and declares that he would prefer to resign office under the Crown rather than take the place.

GOTHA, Dec. 10.—ERNEST II., Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha is dying. He is 51 years old. Prince ALFRED, of England, Duke of Edinburgh, is his heir.

MR. SEWARD IN MEXICO.

The Statesman at the Capital—Enthusiasm of the Mexicans—A Brilliant Reception—Speeches by Prominent Mexicans and by Mr. Seward.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 1, via HAVANA, Dec. 10.—Hon. WILLIAM H. SEWARD and party arrived in this city on the 15th ultimo, and were received at the railroad station by President JUAREZ and his Cabinet, and a Commission of the notables of the city. On the 18th of November Hon. THOMAS H. NELSON, the United States Minister to Mexico, gave Mr. SEWARD a banquet, at which Mr. SCHLOSSER, the representative of Germany, Minister ROMERO and other Ministers and many ladies were present. LERDO DE TEJADO, the President of the Supreme Court, in a speech said that Mr. SEWARD's name would be imperishably written in the history of an important epoch, for his services in behalf of humanity and republican institutions on the American continent. On the night of the 27th ult., a grand banquet was given Mr. SEWARD at the palace. President JUAREZ, the Ministers of the Cabinet and other prominent persons were present. President JUAREZ toasted President GRANT, and paid high compliments to America. Minister NELSON responded. LERDO DE TEJADO spoke at considerable length, defining the relations of the Governments of the United States and Mexico. He proceeded to point out the resemblances between the laws and institutions of the two countries, and declared that in these respects, and in the common pursuit of liberty, they were much alike. Mr. SEWARD followed in a speech, disclaiming all personal interest in coming to Mexico. The Mexican Government, he said, wisely give their political positions to their own countrymen, and not to foreign adventurers. His sole ambition was to inspire the American people with a thorough understanding of the destinies of this continent. Although originally colonized by European monarchies, yet sooner or later it must be made entirely independent of foreign control and of every form of despotic government. Mr. SEWARD proceeded to give an eloquent exposition of American Republicanism, especially in its application to the American continent, and closed by proposing a toast to President JUAREZ, whose name, he said, would remain indissolubly connected with the memories of LINCOLN, BOLIVAR and WASHINGTON. An operatic troupe present sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Minister IGLESIAS interpreted Mr. SEWARD'S speech. Immense enthusiasm prevailed. A very large crowd of people were present, all of whom were anxious to see Mr. SEWARD. Mr. SEWARD will probably leave about the 10th inst.

An incendiary proclamation, dated Havana, Dec. 10, was received by the steamer Columbia from New-York. This proclamation has been circulated extensively throughout the city. The Alabama Claims—The Question of Reopening Negotiations.

THE FIRE IN GALVESTON.

Terrible Destruction of Property—Two Hundred Buildings Burned—Loss, a Million and a Half.

From the Galveston (Texas) News, Dec. 4.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning the alarm of fire drew the gallant red shirts to the corner of Tremont and Strand. The extensive wholesale clothing establishment of COHN BROTHERS, known as the Moro Castle, was in flames. Spreading along the Strand, the fire took in its way Jalonick & Smith, dealers in sash, blinds, &c.; Burns & Gee, hardware; Alfred Ball, Jr., clothing; Magale, liquor dealer, who had a large stock on hand; Craig & Ruff, liquors; Lynch & Co., auctioneers; Shields & Co., agricultural implements; the fine building just erected by the Merchants' Mutual Insurance Company, and occupied by numerous cotton factors and commission merchants; and the Ruby Saloon.

On Tremont, it first took M. W. Shaw & Co.'s jewelers; REINICKE & Co., tobacconists; RICE & BAULARD, paints, &c.; ROBINSON & Co., newsdealers; barroom and Palmetto Hotel—thus making a clean sweep of the entire square. COHN BROTHERS are understood to be fully insured. Of the other sufferers we could not learn particulars.

Crossing Mechanic-street, from the Palmetto House, the sparks soon kindled a flame in the roof of the theatre, and thence to the picture establishment of Mr. VANZILE, grocery store of Mr. HARTNEY, the restaurant of Mr. BRETTE, boot and shoe store and fruit stand, occupied by parties whose names are unknown. In the other direction from Tremont, it first took the barber shop, and then the saloon and boarding house of PHILIP DUBIE, on the corner of Market and Twenty-fourth streets.

The wind carried sparks across Market to the frame building known as Girardin's Hall, occupied by a colored man as a billiard and drinking saloon; thence, it took the gun and ammunition store of JOSEPH LABADIE and the large ice house of S. B. LEWIS & Co. When the fire reached the cartridges in LABADIE'S store, the explosions removed many an old soldier's heart to the stormy days around Vicksburg and Port Hudson. Fortunately, most of the wardrobes belonging to the theatrical company were saved, and a part of the stage furniture.

To the west the flames were driven from the corner of Twenty-fourth-street to the grocery store of JOHN G. ROST & Co., the saloon and boarding house of W. WERZLOW, the dwelling house belonging to W. RICHARDSON, the boarding house of Mrs. DAVIDSON, the boarding house of Mrs. CONNOLLY, and thence through to the corner of Bath-avenue.

The flames had already crossed Market-street, swept on the westward, laying the entire district between Tremont and Bath-avenue a mass of smouldering ruins, with the single exception of the new brick occupied by Mr. THOMPSON as a jewelry store, on the corner of Tremont and Market.

To the south, all the buildings as far as Church-street, between Bath-avenue and Twenty-fourth-street, are consumed, and all on the block between Tremont and Twenty-fourth, and Market and Postoffice. In short the only houses left standing on the ground between the Strand and Church-street, and Tremont and Bath avenues, are Ufford, Armstrong and Berlocher buildings, from corner of Mechanic to the alley way, the frame store formerly occupied by BERNSTEIN & Co., and the buildings fronting Tremont from SAM HARLAN'S to the alley, fronting on Tremont; the fine brick, but just finished, on corner of Tremont and Market, and the frame buildings on Tremont, between Postoffice and Church streets.

The total loss is generally estimated at about $1,500,000, but this can only be considered approximate. The amount insured by our old home, Union, Fire and Marine Company is $44,500. We have not been able to learn the amount insured by our other home Company, the Merchants' Mutual, as their splendid building and office are among the ruins. Whether their books and valuable papers lost or not cannot be known until they can reach their vault, now covered with the fallen walls and fire.

In the Merchants' Mutual Insurance Company building, on the Strand, one of the finest in the city, the following firms had their offices: Geo. Butler & Co., C. H. Jordan, Neill Bros. & Co., A. J. Ward & Co., Dible & Wootens, Allen, Lewis & Co. and A. C. & M. W. Baker, all cotton factors and commission merchants.

The heaviest sufferers by this terrible fire are, of course, the smaller class of property owners, many of whom have lost their all, and some of them will probably need assistance to save their families from suffering.

We should, perhaps, say something here of our Fire Department, but its utter want of proper organization and efficiency is such that we hardly know what terms to use or who is most deserving of censure, but we would by no means throw all the blame on our firemen. It is, however, admitted on all hands that they did very little, if anything, toward arresting this terrible conflagration.

Suicide in Hoboken.

At about 10 o'clock last night, a young German named JOHAN SCHMIDT shot himself with a pistol, on Bloomfield, between Ninth and Tenth streets, in Hoboken. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in an insensible condition, where he soon afterward died. There was found in one of the pockets in his clothing a letter directed to his father, wishing him good bye and a Happy New Year, and requesting him to pay for him a little debt he owed. The motive for the rash act has not been ascertained.

WASHINGTON.

The Debate on the Census Bill in the House—Mr. Butler's Tenure-of-Office Bill—The Franking Privilege—A Heavy Claim—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—One branch of Congress, the House, was in session to-day, and when it is stated that the Census bill was the only topic of discussion, it may be inferred that the proceedings, however important, were dull and uninteresting. The only ripple of merriment which disturbed the gravity of the body was when Mr. FERNANDO WOOD solemnly offered an amendment that the enumerators be prohibited talking politics or religion to the people, and thereon demanded a division. The Democrats were the only supporters of the amendment, and when the mere handful stood up they were greeted with the laughter of the body. The bill was considered in Committee of the Whole to-day, and all the votes indicated that they were in favor of not only passing it substantially as it came from the committee, but of finishing it before the holidays. A motion to adjourn over to Monday was voted down, two to one.

MR. BUTLER'S TENURE-OF-OFFICE BILL.

The House Judiciary Committee have considered Mr. B. F. BUTLER'S bill to repeal the Tenure-of-Office act, and have agreed to report in favor of its passage. Mr. BUTLER introduced a similar bill last session which led to the modification of this celebrated act. There can be no doubt as to its adoption by the House; but its fate in the Senate is by no means certain. It will be recollected that the President, in his message, alluded to the subject and very plainly indicated his views in the matter. The speeches in the Senate, when the subject was last before that body, were as emphatic, if not more so, on the other side, and the question now would appear to be, whether, during their Summer reading, honorable Senators have met anything to change their opinions, or from their home outlook seen anything in the course of the Executive to induce them to make the demanded concession.

THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE.

In the discussion of the Census bill in the House to-day, Mr. FARNSWORTH offered an amendment which he regarded as a test question on the subject of abolishing the franking privilege. It was a motion to strike out a clause of the bill allowing the census officials to transmit official documents free through the Post Office. There was a little skirmishing on the subject, and after remarks from four or five gentlemen who are looked upon as the leading men of the House in favor of abolishing the franking system, the amendment of Mr. FARNSWORTH was voted down by at least two to one. The vote would appear to indicate that this measure of reform will not when it comes up receive a majority support.

VIRGINIA.

The Reconstruction Committee will meet to-morrow to further consider the question of the admission of Virginia, when possibly there will be some further speeches and examinations of delegates on the subject. The conflicting views on the questions of the restoration of this State to her rights and privileges in the Union appear to be narrowed down to the point whether guarantees for her future good conduct shall or shall not be demanded from her. General BUTLER is in favor of exacting very stringent promises from her, but other members of Congress and of the Committee appear to entertain precisely opposite views. Mr. GREELEY may expect to receive from B. F. BUTLER in a short time a reply to his letter written some weeks ago. General BUTLER in his rejoinder will make the point that both their views on national questions have been submitted to their respective constituents and that the result is exceedingly pleasing to him, B. F. B.

PERSONAL.

A delegation of Brooklyn gentlemen arrived here to-day, in behalf of Mr. JAS. R. ALLABEN, who was nominated for Assessor of Internal Revenue last Summer, but whose nomination has not yet been sent to the Senate. No progress has been made in the matter, and it is understood no action will be taken at present.

The contest for the position of Third Auditor, in place of Mr. CLARKE, appears to have narrowed down to three gentlemen, viz.: JOHN A. PETITT, of Indiana; Mr. MILLS, of Nashville, Tenn., and B. F. LOOM. The two former are strongly pressed by their respective Congress delegations, and the chances of Mr. LOOM obtaining the position are thought to be favorable.

A HEAVY CLAIM.

A claim which dwarfs the Alabama claims and all the other demands ever made on either a government, a corporation or an individual, will be presented to the Mexican Commission. It is for no less a sum than $322,907,519 33, and is made by the Tehuantepec Ship Canal Company and Mexican and Pacific Railroad Company. Among its items which make up the above sum is that of $650,000 disbursed to assist JUAREZ against MAXIMILIAN.

FEMALE SUFFRAGE.

The District of Columbia Committee will, at their meeting on Monday next, consider the question of giving the Female Suffrage party a chance of showing how they can purify the ballot and reform the world in this city.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

THE FRENCH TELEGRAPH CABLE.

The subject of the French Atlantic Cable was briefly considered by the Committee of Foreign Affairs yesterday and to-day. FERNANDO WOOD, one of its members, offered a resolution in the House, which was adopted, directing an inquiry into all the facts attending the landing of the cable on our shores and to ascertain whether the French Government has taken any action prejudicial to the United States Government. The Committee has referred the subject for a report to a member who, while in Europe last Summer, made himself entirely familiar with it. The French Government, he says, in granting a charter for twenty years, reserved to itself the right to scrutinize or examine all dispatches at that end of the line, and in addition the telegrams from and to our Government; even private messages are subject to the same conditions. The Committee will unanimously sustain President GRANT'S views relative to ocean cables, and report a bill with a view to remedy this complaint.

THE LIQUOR DEALERS' TAX.

The Internal Revenue Commissioner decided that although distillers and brewers can sell at the place of manufacture, so long as they sell in the original casks or packages to which the tax stamps are affixed, without payment of a tax as liquor dealers, a rectifier of his distilled products cannot sell without paying tax as a liquor dealer at any place.

SOCIAL LIFE.

The first reception of the season, by Secretary FISH and Mrs. FISH, took place this evening. There was a large attendance of ladies and gentlemen, the latter including the Cabinet officers and foreign Ministers, Senators, and prominent army and navy officers.

THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

The Clerk of the Court of Claims has furnished to Congress a statement of all judgments rendered in that Court for the year ending with the 6th of December, 1869, of eighty-four claims, of which twenty-four were dismissed. The aggregate amount claimed was about $2,600,000, and $900,000 were awarded, including $69,000 to GILBERT SECOR and others, for damages due for the deprivation of their lease by the Secretary of the Navy for the use of a floating sectional dry dock at San Francisco for three years after they completed the construction of it; $161,000 for breach of contract in the non-payment of one-half of the stipulated patent fee, for use, by the Government, of an invention known as the Sibley Tent. This case is appealed. The awards for cotton captured by the military forces, twenty-nine cases, amount in the aggregate to $734,000, the highest award being $125,000. This and other cotton cases are appealed.

THE CURRENCY QUESTION.

Mr. INGERSOLL again introduced his bill authorizing an additional issue of $44,000,000 of legal-tender notes, and moved its reference to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. GARFIELD moved its reference to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

Mr. INGERSOLL supposed that was a debatable question, and proposed to discuss it.

Mr. GARFIELD, who held the floor to call up the Census bill, declined to yield for discussion.

Mr. INGERSOLL thereupon withdrew his bill.

THE CENSUS BILL.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, (Mr DAWES in the chair,) and resumed consideration of the Census bill.

Mr. KELLEY moved to strike out of the fourth section the proviso, that in any city comprising more than one Congressional district, the Secretary of the Interior may appoint one District Superintendent for such city, instead of one for each Congressional district. He argued that that would impose upon such Superintendent in Philadelphia, comprising four and a half Congressional districts, and in New-York, comprising six Congressional districts, from four to six times the amount of labor imposed upon other Superintendents, without any increase of compensation. After considerable discussion the motion was agreed to and the proviso struck out.

Mr. JENCKES moved to amend the bill by inserting an additional section (as section 8,) authorizing each District Superintendent to employ, (by consent of the General Superintendent,) in addition to the enumerators, one or more persons to collect, collate, arrange and report the special statistical information called for by the 18th section in relation to mines and mining, to manufacturing and mechanical industry, mercantile and trading establishments, and business, fisheries, education, religion charities, charitable, sanitary, reformatory and penal institutions, and other commercial and social statistics.

He argued in favor of his amendment, and to show the necessity and advantage of the employment of such experts, as his amendment contemplates the appointment of.

After considerable discussion, the amendment was agreed to by a vote of 66 to 45, and the section inserted as section 8.

Mr. WILKINSON moved an amendment to the fourteenth section, imposing a fine of $5,000 on any corporation which shall refuse or neglect to give any information required by the act. In sustaining his amendment, he declared it as his belief, that the two States of Minnesota and Iowa, paid to railroad corporations for the transportation of produce, $10,000,000 a year more than they ought to pay, and when the people came to know how they were victimized by railroad corporations, it would awaken a degree of indignation which would require the Government to take hold of those mammoth corporations, and restrict their power to rob and plunder the people. After discussion the amendment was adopted.

Mr. SCOFIELD moved to strike out the enacting clause of the bill. He was opposed to the multiplication of Federal offices as provided by the bill. He preferred the act of 1850. He believed that under it, the census of 1860 had been well taken, its schedules were better than those provided in this bill, and he believed its machinery was better. There was no provision here for getting statistics about the principal products of his own district.

Mr. GARFIELD—The poor man's light. [Laughter.]

Mr. SCOFIELD appreciated the labor of the Census Committee, but he did not like the machinery of the bill, nor did he like the multiplication of Federal officers. When the war commenced, there was but one set of Federal officers, while now there were four sets, and this bill proposed to create a fifth set.

Mr. GARFIELD regretted that, if the motion were to be adopted, it had not been offered earlier, so as to save time. The House had to take the present bill or allow the census to be taken under the law of 1850, with the slave schedules, and all he regretted was that the House had not got a Committee on the Census more devoted, perhaps, to economy, and one which could have got in the "poor man's light." He wished to have the question determined now.

The question was taken on Mr. SCOFIELD'S motion to strike out the enacting clause, and it was rejected by a large majority.

Mr. FARNSWORTH moved to strike out the sixteenth section, giving the franking privilege to census officers. He said he made the motion as a test question.

Mr. GARFIELD, while expressing himself in favor of abolishing the franking privilege, did not regard this as a test question on that subject. The motion was rejected.

CUBAN RECOGNITION.

Mr. HOAG asked leave to offer a resolution directing the Committee on Foreign Affairs to inquire into the expediency of recognizing the independence of the Republic of Cuba, but objection was made.

The Speaker presented various documents, including the memorial from the State of South Carolina relative to the recognition of Cuba.

Mr. WARD presented a petition signed by 73,000 citizens of the State of New-York, asking Congress to accord belligerent rights to the people of Cuba, and to recognize their independence. He asked that it be read.

Mr. FARNSWORTH and others objected to the reading.

Mr. WARD then withdrew the petition, announcing that he would on Monday move to suspend the rules so as to have it read.

ADJOURNMENT.

A motion to adjourn till Monday was rejected, and the House, at 3:45, adjourned till to-morrow.

Mortar and Pestle—A Little Story from Connecticut.

From the Hartford Courant, Dec. 10.

Among the relics of a New-London couple, which the wife had excavated from a pile of rubbish, was an old fashioned mortar, heavy and capacious, but minus the pestle. It was of no use as it was, and the lady began to pester her lord to get the article necessary to make it complete. So on Saturday night he started out in search of a pestle, visiting store after store without finding the article. At each place he took a drink, until at 10 o'clock he found himself a little beside himself. At last in his search he discovered a pair of heavy dumb bells, bought them, and taking one in each hand started on his way home. Arriving at the door he lifted the knocker with his teeth and let it "thud." His wife let him in, and inquired what he "lugged those nasty things home for?" "Pessel, my dear," he replied; "beau'ful (hic) pessels; when one end wears out, turn (hic) round and (hic) use t'other. S'perb pessel." And here the muddled husband proceeded to illustrate by grinding the dumb bell in his best hat, what a "fuss rate pessel" it was. "But, my dear, I can't lift those heavy things," she remonstrated. "Exercise with 'em, and (hic) git so you can liff 'em after 'while."

The Municipal Election in Augusta—Agricultural Improvement—Hon. Horace Capron's Speech—Location of the Next Fair—Planters Holding Cotton for Higher Prices—The Meeting of the Legislature.

From Our Own Correspondent.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Monday, Dec. 6, 1869.

The event of the past week in this city has been the municipal election, resulting in the choice of Major J. V. H. ALLEN for Mayor, and a highly respectable Conservative number of citizens for Aldermen. They are all Democrats, but have not been prominently connected with politics. They are business men in whom the taxpayers have confidence, and the best proof of their popularity is that there was no serious opposition to their election. Mayor ALLEN is a young man, was a very efficient member of the Municipal Government of this city during the past year, displayed considerable financial ability, and had a great deal of useful work done at the least possible expense. He was elected for his honesty and capacity, not for his politics alone; and I am happy to see that under the new era, fitness for office and integrity have more influence in elections to offices of trust than mere political considerations. Indeed, politics are beginning to command very little public attention. Matter—and by matter I mean such things as large cotton crops, abundant yields of corn, oats and wheat, deep plowing, draining, manure heaps, improved stock, orchards, labor-saving machinery and manufacturing—is obtaining a decided supremacy over mind, as manifested in stump speeches, party platforms, mass meetings, wire-pulling and similar evidences of intellectual effort. I verily believe that were JOHN C. CALHOUN to return to life and come to deliver one of his best political speeches, and were a steam plow to be exhibited in operation in the same community, the crowd would abandon the orator to see the plow. There never was a time when the man who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before was so universally honored as now, and the man who can make two bales of cotton grow where one grew before is overwhelmed by popular admiration. I need only instance DAVID DICKSON and BENJAMIN G. LOCKETT, of this State, to prove the correctness of my assertion.

The speech of Mr. Commissioner CAPRON to the Agricultural Society during the Macon Fair has been very much commended, and is likely to produce the best effects. It was eminently practical; kind in temper, conciliatory in language, and entirely appropriate to the occasion. It will probably give a great impetus to fruit-growing, for which the soil of many parts of the Southern States is so thoroughly adapted, and which hitherto has been so much neglected in consequence of the universal worship of King Cotton. People are beginning to find out that cotton first, last, and all the time, until the land becomes exhausted and refuses to produce anything, is an unprofitable operation, and that, with hired labor, to some extent of a precarious character, high prices for all sorts of supplies, and widely fluctuating prices for cotton, it is absolutely necessary to endeavor to reach the maximum of production with the minimum of labor, to make one acre of land, heavily manured, thoroughly prepared, cultivated by the best machines, sown with the best seed, yield as much as three or even four acres planted "in the old way," and that the application of the system of scientific agriculture which has been approved by the most successful agriculturists of the Old and New Worlds, is the only road to profit.

The first step on the way of improvement has been taken in the adoption of superior implements of husbandry, and in the use of manures. No one who has any claim to the reputation of a good planter, will allow the old plows which scratched the surface soil to a depth of two to three inches to be used on his land, and the stupid idea that breaking the subsoil to any depth injures the productive power of the land is now completely exploded. The two-horse turn plow, followed by a two-horse subsoil plow, breaking the land from ten to sixteen inches, is now the accepted mode of preparation, and those who from want of means are unable to practice it, and are compelled "to make out" with the old "scooter" and "twister," admit that the new mode is the best, and express the determination to adopt it as soon as they are able.

A similar revolution has been wrought in the use of manures. The belief that "guano ain't no account" has disappeared almost entirely, and has been replaced by, I fear, a too unsuspecting faith in the merits of every sort and condition of malodor

THE SPANISH GUNBOATS.

Their Discharge Ordered by Judge Blatchford.

Official Announcement of the Cessation of Hostilities Between Spain and Peru.

Proceedings Yesterday in the United States District Court, Southern District—The Context of Judge Blatchford's Order.

The adjourned motion for the discharge of the Spanish gunboats now lying at the foot of Thirteenth-street, on the North River, came on yesterday at the United States District Court, before Judge BLATCHFORD.

At the opening of the case Mr. E.W. STOUGHTON said, "If your Honor will permit us to make the motion now for the discharge of the Spanish gunboats I think we shall dispose of it very briefly. We now bring on this motion upon the ground that a state of war no longer exists between Spain and Peru. I make this motion on behalf of Mr. DELAMATER, the claimant of these boats. Your Honor will bear in mind that this information is founded upon the idea, if not upon the statement, that such a state of war exists between Spain and Peru as authorized the Government to instruct the District-Attorney to seize these gunboats, upon the theory that they were designed to be used by Spain against Peru, a country with which we are at peace. We have such evidence, upon which we make this motion, that this state of war, which at one time existed, no longer continues; but I think the District-Attorney will hardly be disposed to resist our application.

Mr. PIERREPONT—Your Honor, this has not been before the Court in any formal way, but it is proper I should state how the libel happened to be filed. The Peruvian Minister last Summer posted a note to the Secretary of State to the effect that these gunboats were being built here for the purpose of committing hostilities against Peru, which Republic was at war with Spain, or if not intended to go directly against Peru, that they were intended to relieve their ships of war from blockading Cuba, and thus, indirectly, they were being built for the purpose of making war against Peru, with which Spain was at war and the United States at peace, and it remained under Executive order for some time, until finally it was thought desirable on the part of the Government that they should be libeled and formally brought into Court, and the libel in this case proceeds upon the ground, and the sole ground, that the United States are at peace with Peru, and that Spain and Peru are at war, and that these gunboats are fitting out in our waters for the purpose of making war or committing any war against Peru, with which we are at peace and with which Spain is at war. I have, within the last few hours, received instructions from Washington and copies of the notes that have passed between the Peruvian Minister, the Spanish Minister and the Secretary of State of our Government upon the subject of that war, and it appears now that in place of such a position that war between Peru and Spain no longer exists, and for that reason the Government don't feel disposed and don't feel at liberty to press the libel any further when the cause has ceased to exist upon which the libel was grounded.

Mr. STOUGHTON—I think it is proper to add to the motion which, as I have stated, was simply for the discharge of these boats, a further application, and I presume this will not be resisted by the Attorney for the district, that the whole proceedings may be disposed of. If that is not objected to, as I presume it will not be, it will dispose of the entire question and the litigation. That is not objected to.

Mr. PIERREPONT—I am not moving now to dismiss the libel. This motion comes up for the purpose of discharging, but so far as it relates to the holding of the gunboats it falls as a matter of course. I don't see any need of any action of the Court upon that matter. If the motion is granted the gunboats are discharged, and I don't think there is anything further in it.

Mr. STOUGHTON—It is not of any consequence what it is for. There was a subsequent arrangement between the attorney and the counsel for the claimant.

Judge BLATCHFORD—It is likely to be a matter of considerable importance, if the Government chooses to dismiss these libels and withdraw the prosecution it has a right to do so, and to make the whole thing fall. The question of the discharge of the gunboats before the return of the process is quite a different thing, and I should feel reluctant to establish a rule or precedent that in a suit of this nature the parties should come into Court, and by arrangement consent that the property seized shall be discharged. That is something that strikes me as being open to objection on principle. I knew of one case in this Court where it was done, and a very serious prejudice was developed. This is a suit in rem. The whole world are called to come here on the return day of the process, which, I have been informed, is next Tuesday, and until then I am unable to say how the Court can discharge property provided the order by which it is held is regular. In case of information or libel disclosing no cause of action, of course, it is discharged; but in case of a regular libel and process, and property regularly seized, how this Court can discharge it before the regular day of the process, I can't say. If the Government chose to withdraw from the prosecution and dismiss the libel entirely, why it has a right to do so at any moment; it stands, then, precisely as though the matter had never been brought into court, but this Court cannot know but that some party other than the party who comes here now and moves for a discharge, may come here on the return day of the process and claim the property. The difficulty is on principle, and I should dislike very much in cases of this kind to establish any precedent or rule that could be violated.

Mr. STOUGHTON—It is so utterly improbable that any claim to this property by anybody will be made at any time other than that set forth in the libel that it has seemed to us, and, I presume, to the District-Attorney, that there could be no objection to the charge of the Government being abandoned and to the discharge of the costs. Under the circumstances, as the Government for the cause of the State proposed to abandon this prosecution, it seems to me, in view of the great expenditure incurred in keeping these boats, and the hardships imposed upon Mr. DELAMATER, that it is not asking too much of the District-Attorney to suggest that under the intimation of the Court he should assent to the dismissal of these suits or these proceedings. I am very sure that the learned District-Attorney does not intend to defraud this libel upon any imagination that the claims of others may be made. He has no information, I am persuaded, or suggestion that any one has any claim upon these boats. As the libel is to be dismissed, as the charge contained in it has not even attempted to be established, I ask my learned friend whether, in the discharge of his duties, he cannot say that these libels may now be dismissed. It will relieve us from an embarrassment, and I trust he will consent.

Mr. PIERREPONT—I only represent the Government in the matter and no other parties. I have no suggestion and no intimation from anybody that there was any other claim than that which appears in the libel. The libel is solely and only on the ground that we are at peace with Peru, and that Spain is at war with Peru, which seemed to have been the case, and which was moved in consequence of a note received by the Secretary of State from the Peruvian Minister, giving such information. In consequence of that this libel was filed. Now to-day I have received from Washington the documents from the Secretary of State containing the letters that have passed within the last few days since the filing of the libel, between the Spanish Minister, the Peruvian Minister, and the Secretary of State, in which it now appears clear and distinct that whatever war may have hitherto existed, it has ceased to exist, and I am officially informed by the Secretary of State that he can now say that the war between Peru and Spain has ceased, and for that reason that these libels, on any such ground, are not further to be prosecuted. That is all I have to say about the matter. The Government don't intend to prosecute them further. They have no evidence on which to act to sustain themselves after what has occurred between the Spanish Minister, the Peruvian Minister, and our own Minister of State. Now the exact form to be taken in this matter I don't know. I would rather leave that to the Court. I came here simply on the motion to discharge them on the ground that there was no war, and I am advised thus the war has ceased and therefore I cannot resist the motion with the advices I have from the Government, and I consent, therefore, so far as the statements may consent, that it is true there is no war, and that they take their motion which is to discharge the boat. The exact form of gaining the end I don't undertake to suggest. I bring the facts before the Court just as I am instructed by the Government, and I leave your Honor to make such orders as you may think fit. It is the desire of the Government that they should be discharged in a formal way through the Court, and there is no expectation on the part of the Government to prosecute it any further. If any individuals have come in I am not aware, for no notice has been given to me. No other rights are involved, as far as I know, and what counsel states in that regard is correct.

Judge BLATCHFORD—If the party or litigant who has brought this action comes to the deliberate conclusion that he has no cause of action, the only course is to withdraw it and not to ask the Court to decide whether he has decided properly in coming to the conclusion that he cannot succeed in the suit. This official statement that the Government has no cause of action and no expectation of succeeding in the suit, and yet wishes the Court to pass upon something, is anomalous in the administration of justice.

Mr. PIERREPONT—The only embarrassment that arises in this case grows out of the fact that we come here on the motion simply, and your Honor has heard it and the reply. There is nothing before the Court except that motion, and any proper mode of disposing of that will, of course, be satisfactory.

Mr. STOUGHTON said that Mr. PIERREPONT assented to the motion.

Judge BLATCHFORD—I am not still satisfied that that is a proper motion for the Court to grant. I will hear the arguments in order to satisfy me that I ought to grant it.

Mr. STOUGHTON—After the statement made by the District-Attorney that he does not purpose to prosecute these libels, it seems to me that in a case like this, involving considerations far beyond those involved in any ordinary case—involving questions which reach very far and very deep—he should dispose of this by doing now that which he certainly will do hereafter, to consent that these libels be dismissed. That relieves your Honor from the embarrassment which has been suggested, and although the motion is in form to dismiss, still when the District-Attorney consents that the motion be granted and that the vessels be discharged, upon the ground that he does not intend to prosecute further, the cause of the action having disappeared, it seems he could dispose of it by assenting to the prosecution. Before proceeding with the argument to show your Honor may grant this motion, I will ask Mr. PIERREPONT to assent to that suggestion.

Mr. PIERREPONT—From the dispatches I have received I can only state that the Government don't intend to further prosecute in this action; that a state of war no longer exists between Spain and Peru, and that the ground upon which this libel was originally filed has ceased to exist, and that on the return day of the process and on the sitting in Admiralty I should state to the Court that we have no cause of action in the libel, and should not attempt to sustain it under these advices. The case on the part of the Government has so changed that we could not proceed upon it with the evidence we have to sustain it. Such is the state of the case now, and such would be its state if your Honor was sitting on the Admiralty on the return day. Now, exactly by what process you can get at the same result on the return day, I have not considered, and that is the way the case stands before this Court, and, if your Honor was sitting in Admiralty, I should state what I now state, that my instructions were such, and the evidence to be adduced on the part of the Government was such that I could not proceed with the case.

Judge BLATCHFORD—Hand me all your explanations and notices of motion, and I will dispose of the matter.

Mr. STOUGHTON—I have submitted an order to the District-Attorney, which he is now reading, and perhaps he will consent to it. There is no objection to the order, and I think if your Honor approves of it, it will dispose of all questions.

Judge BLATCHFORD—This won't answer, and I can't consent to it.

Mr. STOUGHTON—What! on the consent of the District-Attorney?

Mr. PIERREPONT—I have said all I intend to say. I have presented the facts and will make no objection to the order, but don't consent to anything.

Judge BLATCHFORD then dictated the following order:

The United States of America vs. certain gunboats lying at foot of Thirteenth-street, North River, tackle, &c.; The Same vs. twenty-nine other gunboats, tackle, &c, from number two to thirty, both inclusive.—These suits and the libels on information filed within the same, having been consolidated into one suit and the motion being now made on the part of CORNELIUS H. DELAMATER, who has duly filed the same against the gunboats, to discharge the same from custody, and it appearing by the information filed in said suits that the ground of forfeiture alleged therein is that the gunboats are about to sail from the port of New-York with intent to cruise or commit hostilities in the service of the Kingdom of Spain, against the subjects, citizens and property of the Government of Peru, with whom the United States are at peace, and that the same have been fitted out and armed with the intent that they should be employed in the service of the Government of Spain to commit hostilities against the subjects, citizens and property of the aforesaid Government of Peru, with which the United States are at peace, in violation of the thirtieth section of the act of Congress 20th April, 1818—an act for the punishment of certain crimes against the United States; and it appearing to the Court, from the said libels and information, that the only ground upon which the same is founded is that the said gunboats are intended to be used in committing hostilities on the part of the Government and people of Spain against the subjects, citizens and property of the Government of Peru, and the District-Attorney of the United States for the Southern District of New-York appearing now in open Court and stating that the Government of the United States is satisfied that the political question—a state of war does not exist at the present time between the Government and the Kingdom of Spain and the Government of Peru, and also stating that the Government of the United States has no intention of further prosecuting such libels on information, and further stating that it does not object to the granting of the motion to discharge the said gunboats from custody; it is therefore, on the motion of the attorney for Mr. DELAMATER, ordered that the said motion be granted and the said thirty gunboats, numbered as aforesaid, tackle, &c., be discharged from the custody they are held in by the Marshal of the United States for this district, under the several monitions and processes issued herein.

Mr. PIERREPONT—That covers it, I think.

The order was made, and the Court shortly afterward adjourned.

Affairs at Delamater's Yard—Probable Speedy Departure of the Flotilla.

Immediately after the release of the gunboats by the Court, Deputy Marshal WINSLOW, stationed at DELAMATER'S Yards, received orders to withdraw his men, but at the request of Mr. DELAMATER they were still retained to assist the private watch in guarding the boats. A large force of sailors from the Spanish frigate Picarro will be immediately placed on board of the fifteen finished vessels, to get them ready and take them to sea as soon as possible. The departure of the boats may be looked for at any moment.

THE WHITE PINE REGION.

Report of the Military Exploration Party Sent Out by General Ord—The Proper Route to the Colorado—Character of the Country—Mining and Mines.

The report of Lieutenant GEORGE WHEELER, of the Corps of Engineers, who, with Lieutenant LOCKWOOD, led the exploring party sent out a few months ago by General ORD to discover a route through the White Pine country to the Colorado River, to which reference has been made in our San Francisco dispatches and in the report of the Secretary of War, contains a great deal of valuable information. Lieutenant WHEELER says the specific objects of the reconnoissance were to gain as careful topographical features as possible, to examine and locate the different mining districts so far discovered, to examine and report upon the necessity of military posts at any point or points, to gain information in regard to the number, habits and dispositions of the various Indian tribes, all with a view of finding the most practicable route for rail and ordinary travel from a point on the Central Pacific Railroad to the head of navigation of the Colorado.

THE ROUTE.

The exploring party consisted of forty-eight persons; they had with them eighty-five animals, and a quantity of supplies and camp stuff. The actual start was made from White Pine, or a point three miles to the east, on the 1st of August. A course nearly east was taken, in order to reach Steptoe Valley; thence the main line of the reconnoissance was to be nearly due south to the Colorado as practicable, making back upon a more westerly line. Such plan has been carried out. The reconnoissance has been extended over a line of between 1,600 and 1,700 miles, including all detours; seventeen mining districts have been visited and examined, and twenty-five valleys traversed, each in nearly a longitudinal direction.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

The entire region offers but few chances for agriculture, and has comparatively little wood and timber. Of the valleys visited Pahranaget Valley is the largest and most fertile. Its waters come from three large springs, known in order, commencing at the head of the valley, as Hyko, Crystal and Ash Springs. These, flowing down for the entire extent, sink in Pahranagat Lake. Quite near the first of these has grown up the little mining town called Hyko. It is on an elevation above the sea level of 3,820 feet. As the lake is approached the soil is of a deep, moist and dark colored loam. The land between Hyko and Crystal Springs has not yet been brought under cultivation, for the reason that the water of the springs has been allowed to find its way to the surface and remain stagnant in many places for lengthened intervals. However, by this action the land has been benefited, and Lieutenant WHEELER thinks that should one large ditch be cut and carried round upon the Mesa to the westward, the region would be opened and prove the finest and best in the entire valley. About Crystal Lake are 3,000 acres at least of very valuable land. The various grains and vegetables raised are of a superior character and large yield. The climate, including the Winter season, for seven or eight months is very equable, at no time showing any great extreme of heat or cold. Snow never remains on the ground for more than twenty-four hours. During the Midsummer the heat is at times excessive.

MINES AND MINING.

Mining in Nevada is still in its infancy, as among the great number of silver mining districts already discovered many present exceedingly favorable appearances, while from those that have been worked to a considerable extent and show signs of permanency, large results may be anticipated. Among the latter the Great Hyko Silver Lode, in the Pahranagat district, about ten miles from Hyko, makes the best showing for a strong vein. These mines were discovered in March, 1867, an Indian named Gutibito, white men to the surface croppings. The Company now operating have a ten-stamp mill, with arrangements for roasting ore, situated at Hyko. The great Hyko Lode, from which ore has been taken, extends in one continuous line of more than five miles, bearing nearly magnetic north, and situated in elevation some 1,300 to 1,400 feet below the summit of the great Quartz Mountain, that has an elevation of 8,375 feet. The formation at this locality has its counterpart in many sections, showing principally on the surface dolomitic limestone of silurian age, in many cases highly metaphorphic. The general upheaval of the great ranges of mountains has been in one grand wave, whose longitudinal axis was nearly due north and south, the continuity of whose force, as if turned by friction, in many places creating great irregularity of motion in the subsidence; at these points vast mountain spurs have been formed, tending for the most part to the northeast. Great action of this nature is shown in this vicinity, of which the variety of canyons and contortions for hills are examples. The principal locations that have been thoroughly developed, are the Illinois and the Indiana; the former opened to a depth of nearly 400 feet below the surface, bears slightly to the east of magnetic north, showing a dip of about 80° toward the mountains; at most points the ledge measured from 16 to 21 feet in width, and this between well-marked walls on either side. The best of indications are those of a true fissure vein of great thickness and undoubted permanency. The Indiana wherever opened, has shown walls of the same nature as the Illinois, and precisely the same character of ores. So far an average of ores taken from this vein after careful sorting will work from $60 to $75 per ton, while those at the surface, and from various localities that apparently are but offshoots from the mother vein, make a much finer showing in the returns per ton, in a number of instances running from $300 to $500.

THE ROADWAY.

This country, until quite lately so little known, is fast coming into prominence. When the time comes for joining the Central Pacific Railroad with the head of navigation of the Colorado or Southern Pacific Railroad, Pahranagat Valley will be found to offer the most legitimate roadway. And if Government sees fit to place a military post at a point on the line through to the South, looking to a permanent development of the country, no better point than Pahranagat Valley will be found available.

It says it is true that the Executive and Legislative Departments are radically opposed in politics, but both have seemed to avoid partisan issues and to work together harmoniously for the general welfare.

That ablebodied man from Central New-York who reached Newark a week ago with his invalid wife on a wheelbarrow, returning on his toilsome journey home from Gettysburg, has somehow got back to Trenton again, with his wife, wheelbarrow and two children, and has applied for quarters in the Poor House for the Winter.

ISE SATABA and ZUN ZOW MATSMULLA, two youths from Japan, reported at the United States Naval Academy, in Annapolis, Md., on Tuesday, and were assigned to duty, in accordance with an act of Congress, authorizing two such youths to enter the Academy as midshipmen, at the expense of their own Government.

A woman in Grand Traverse County, Mich., told her husband, who came in and found her giving the child something to eat from a plate, that "the little soul would be in Heavan in ten minutes, and she wouldn't live a great while," at the same time eating some of the preparation herself. It proved to be strychnine. The husband ran to a neighbor for help, and when he came back the child was dead.

During his visit to Boston Père HYACINTHE left his autograph in the visitors' Register in the Massachusetts Historical Society's rooms in the following form: "Fr. HYACINTHE LOYSON, Paris, France, corde petit placidam sub libertate quietem." Thus he adopted the motto of the State of Massachusetts, with the substitution of the word corde (heart) for ense (sword:)—"With the heart (instead of the sword) he seeks tranquil repose under the protection of liberty."

BAM-ME-NO-DO-NO-KIAD, who reported that he was an Ojibeway chief on his way to Washington to see his Great Father, was arrested in Baltimore on Wednesday for being drunk. Being drunk was not an unpardonable offence, but his unearthly yells, which he called the war-whoop, alarmed the children in the streets. At the station house he expressed his disgust at the lodge, and finally, on being released, went away, saying, "Injun sick in head; bad fire water; Injun fool."

While the counsel for the prisoner in a criminal trial in Philadelphia, on Wednesday, was making his argument, one of the jurors started up and exclaimed: "I say he's not guilty." The Judge rebuked the juror and fined him $100, although he said, in justification of himself, that he was hard of hearing, and misunderstood the attorney, and that he was never in a Court of justice before, and at all events did not intend to do any wrong.

A Bostonian, now in Spain, writes home: "The Republicans are muti canes—they won't bark." And again, after alluding to TOPETE'S resignation as a member of the Cabinet, "PRIM said he should not go—he would go himself if his own TOPETE did. TOPETE went into convulsive sobs, and went off to think the thing up; twenty-four hours later, came back and said he would go. So his resignation was accepted, 6th November, and PRIM, watching his chance while nobody was looking, gobbled the portfolio of Marine. Then he came back to the Cortes, and made a touching reference to TOPETE, whom he seemed to love rather more fondly than his own grandmother."

A monument to the memory of the late HENRY KEEP is to be erected in Watertown, at a cost of over $75,000. It is to be in the shape of a Greek cross, thirty-seven feet in height. The interior will be of polished Italian marble, with memorial windows of stained glass in the octagonal of the cross. The remains of Mr. KEEP will be placed in a sarcophagus, with his bust on the top. Similar receptacles are to be prepared for his wife and daughter, with kneeling statues. The statuary will be executed in Rome, by Mr. VOLK.

They conduct the municipal canvass in Boston without passion, speaking only gentle words. At a Democratic meeting on Wednesday evening the regular party candidate for Mayor said mildly: "If my name had been used in a Democratic Convention, I would have allowed myself to be cut in pieces before I would have permitted the use of my name in another convention. I do not propose to attack the character of Dr. SHURTLEFF, but I say that any man who allows his name to be used in a Convention, and then, simply because he is defeated, allows its use in another Convention, is nothing but a political trickster and poltroon."

Hon. J. S. GOLLADAY, who is a candidate for United States Senator from Kentucky, addressed the members of the Legislature and others at a meeting in the Capitol on Wednesday night. He said that while he was not a candidate upon that ground, he was now and ever had been an earnest advocate of the policy of repudiating our bonded debt. He then proceeded to advocate repudiation from a moral and legal standpoint, and said Congress had repudiated the debt of $200,000,000 due Kentucky for slaves set free during the war, and he would never consent to pay one cent of our bonded debt while that debt stood unpaid. Three-fourths of the people of Kentucky, he declared, are with him.

THE RAILROAD QUARRELS.

A Little Unpleasantness Outside the Courts—Rough Discussion at a Hotel Table.

From the Rochester Union, Dec. 9.

The Albany and Susquehanna Railroad fight took on a new phase last night. Some of the parties interested in the litigation engaged in a rumpus at the Osburn House, and were guilty of conduct unbecoming gentlemen. The Osburn House has been the headquarters of the litigants for a week or two past, and the rival lawyers, clients and witnesses are brought constantly in contact about the hotel. It is strange, with the state of feeling existing, that an encounter had not taken place sooner than last night. The trial became rather hot yesterday, and the testimony was so decidedly conflicting that all parties became restive.

On Tuesday evening W. J. A. FULLER and T. G. SHEARMAN, of New-York, arrived with their wives at the Osburn. They being of the Fisk and Gould party, came to attend the trial.

Last evening between 5 and 6 o'clock as these gentlemen were seated at the supper table, an altercation ensued between them and Mr. VAN VALKENBURG, of Albany, late Superintendent of the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad. It began by a remark from Mr. VAN VALKENBURG that there had been some tall swearing to-day, and other comments of a like character, when he was responded to. SHEARMAN threw a water pitcher at VAN VALKENBURG, and it is said a clock followed. There was a sensation in the dining room and the parties separated. The proceeding was ungentlemanly, and wholly out of place in the dining room of a hotel in the presence of ladies and gentlemen.

There was another disturbance in which SHEARMAN was involved that occurred soon after, and which has been confounded with the rumpus in the dining room. A summons had been issued from the Supreme Court over which Judge SMITH presides, at the instance of RAMSEY for SHEARMAN. This summons was given to Constable J. B. MARKLEY, in attendance upon Court, to execute. SHEARMAN was aware of the fact so that he confounded him with Mr. FULLER, another of the Erie party stopping at the Osburn. The constable went to the hotel and served the summons upon FULLER, handing him a dollar with the paper. FULLER took both paper and dollar, and finding what was the nature of the paper, probably advised SHEARMAN and put him on his guard against service if the mistake should be discovered. As soon as MARKLEY discovered his mistake he procured another summons and returned to the hotel. SHEARMAN was pointed out to him as ascending the stairs. The constable called to him to stop and at length gave chase. SHEARMAN ran to FULLER'S room, and just as he got in the door he was overtaken by the constable. Some three or four of the Fisk party were in the doorway and assaulted the constable, as he declares, and prevented service. The constable stayed on the watch, however, and finally succeeded in getting a service. Soon after this transaction SHEARMAN and FULLER took a special train on the Erie Railway and left for the south.

A Word for Alaska—Its Climate and Its Possible Future.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Ever and anon the newspapers have a fling at Mr. SEWARD'S northern investment, yet I do not observe a corresponding willingness to accept the good points of the purchase. Of course every one acknowledges its advantages in timber, minerals, furs and fishes. But there is a prevalent doubt whether there are seven millions' worth of such advantages, plus expenses of government.

It has one other recommendation, however, which, as far as I know, has altogether escaped notice. This is its climate. Probably I shall be laughed at for asserting that such a wet, foggy country, where oats do not ripen and potatoes will not keep, has anything to boast of in this respect. But people are not generally aware what an immense influence on the fall of rain the timber of a country produces. The Viceroy of Egypt has increased the rain-fall tenfold in certain portions of his dominions by planting trees. Since the Mormon colonization in Utah, and the subsequent growth of timber, Summer showers, previously unheard of, have become not unfrequent; and the Salt Lake is expanding steadily and rapidly. In the Eastern States the watercourses on which the lumbermen of the last century used to float down logs, have shrunk so much, on account of the destruction of the forests, as not now to be available for their former uses. When Alaska has given up her vast wealth of timber, the excess of fog and rain will have disappeared, and she will enjoy a mild, pleasant climate, not unlike that of England, except so far as superior to the latter. Invariably western coasts possess this advantage over eastern ones.

I said that the grand recommendation of Alaska is the climate. But climate stands principally in relation to two very different kinds of products. One consists of vegetable growth, the other embrace the genus Homo. It is much to be regretted that at the present day, the former almost wholly absorbs the consideration which a further-reaching judgment would almost wholly accord to the latter. Speaking seriously, deliberately, in the truest sense practically, and reckoning a man's life to lie in himself alone, and not in the abundance of the things he possesses, it would seem that the adaptation of a region for the production of cotton or corn or silver or gold, is absolutely of the slightest possible importance, compared with its adaptation for the production of man. Of this last I mean, of course, the real article; not the pallid, dyspeptic, thin-voiced creature, I dare not think how common in the Eastern States. Man's physical development is the product of two factors, race and climate. The first, Americans possess in perfection. Multiply it by such a climate as that of the future Alaska, and the resultant type will be magnificent. The Summers there are cool, and the Winters are warm, and the moist atmosphere puts red in the cheeks and flesh on the bones, and a soul in the voice.

A much weightier matter, I own, is moral development. But if it is the genius of the present age to devote itself persistently to the outer world, and the overslaugh of the inner one, do let us at least try to choose the noblest part of the physical creation for our most solicitous care; and in the scale of sympathy and affection not rank the health of men and the beauty of women below the culture and growth of wheat and tobacco, born of the dust and nursed of the barnyard. ### Narrow Escape of Mayor Beach of Troy from Death by Poison.

From the Troy Times, Dec. 9.

A day or two since Mayor BEACH had a narrow escape from death by poison. He was slightly unwell, and called upon his physician, Dr. SEYMOUR, to prescribe for him. The doctor prepared a powder, and directing that it should be taken with some syrup, laid it upon his desk. The two gentlemen engaged in conversation for a few minutes, when the Doctor was called out, and the Mayor, picking up, as he supposed, his package of medicine, withdrew from the office. He went home, prepared the medicine as directed, and swallowed it entire. In a few moments he was seized with the most violent pains, and, becoming alarmed, sent for the doctor, who came speedily, and, divining the mistake, relieved his patient by the use of the stomach pump. The medicine the Mayor took consisted of about fifty grains of chloride of potassium, enough to kill a person of ordinary size, which the doctor had put up for another patient, intending it to be taken in successive doses. The ordinary dose is about five grains. It will be seen from this how narrow was the escape of Mr. BEACH. He is now slowly recovering from his unfortunate mistake.

Exhumation in Ohio of the Remains of a Megatherium.

From the Columbus State Journal, Dec. 6.

There is now on exhibition at the rooms of the State Board of Agriculture, or Headquarters of the Geological Corps, a section of the femur or thigh bone of an animal of the mastodon species, the fossilized remains of which were recently discovered in Union County. These remains were found in a drift formation about three feet below the surface, and are similar to the remains of the Megatherium found in other parts of the State. Arrangements were made by Mr. KLIPPART, of the Geological Corps, to have the skeleton of the parts thereof removed with proper care. Before excavations had proceeded far bad weather set in, and work has been abandoned. The section of the femur, upper part with socket ball, is about twenty inches in length, or about half the length of the thigh bone. This would make the aggregate length of the bones of the leg about ten feet. The ball is twenty-two inches in circumference, and the bone lower down of course much larger. From the part of the skeleton secured, it is estimated that the height of the animal was twelve and a half feet, and the length twenty feet, and the skeleton entire much larger than the specimen now in the British Museum. As this particular species, or remains thereof, have been found only in Ohio, this specimen has been named the Megatherium Ohioensis. The animals lived, it is supposed, in the period immediately preceding the human period, and were after the elephant type.

Exhuming operations will be resumed in the Spring, and if the skeleton is removed in good shape a good state of preservation, it will be set up in the Echo Room at the Capitol, where the fossils collected by the Geological Corps are now being arranged and stored.

THE DRAWBACK FRAUDS.

An Examination Waived by Blatchford—He is Held to Await the Action of the Grand Jury—Conclusion of Romeyn Mulligan's Case—Remarks by Counsel—The Defendants Held.

SAMUEL T. BLATCHFORD has been held for trial before the United States Court, on an indictment recently found against him by the Grand Jury, accusing him of a conspiracy to defraud the Government. He has waived the usual preliminary examination in the United States Commissioners' office, to which all defendants are entitled, shortly after his arrest. The reports in some of the newspapers to the effect that BLATCHFORD had promised to make important revelations, implicating prominent persons in the drawback frauds to District-Attorney PIERREPONT are emphatically denied by the latter. Judge PIERREPONT also told our reporter yesterday that he had not made any agreement to receive BLATCHFORD as a State's evidence witness, and that no such arrangement was likely to be made. This is a conclusive contradiction of all the sensational stories which have lately been made in regard to measures of leniency toward BLATCHFORD on the part of the Government.

THE MULLIGAN CASE.

The examination in the case of ROMEYN MULLIGAN, charged with complicity in the drawback frauds, was terminated yesterday. It was conducted before Commissioner OSBORN, in the private office of the District-Attorney. Ex-Judge QUACKENBOS appeared for the defendant. He has desirous of introducing Wm. MULLIGAN, President of the Humboldt Insurance Company, who is a brother of the accused, as a witness in the case, offering to show by him that RICHARD B. CALDWELL had acquitted MULLIGAN of any guilty participation in the frauds in a conversation recently held with W. MULLIGAN at Prescott, Canada. The District-Attorney objected to the admission of any testimony of the character proposed, on the ground that it was not good legal evidence. Defendant's counsel subsequently said that he hoped to have been enabled to have produced an affidavit of R. B. CALDWELL, taken at Prescott, for the purpose of showing that MULLIGAN had no knowledge of the scheme to rob the Government by the collection of false claims at the time it was being perpetrated. He had not received the affidavit, however, although Mr. REYNOLDS, of Prescott, acting as CALDWELL'S counsel, had telegraphed to his (QUACKENBOS') client that the affidavit had been mailed on the 4th inst. For his part he believed that it had been intercepted. He exhibited a copy of the telegraphic message. He then proceeded to sum up the case for the defence. He said that the gentleman he represented had sustained a reputation unsuspected and unimpeached in this community hitherto; that he had passed his youth and manhood in this City, and that he had been respected by all who knew him. He mentioned that his grandfather, HERCULES MULLIGAN, was an intimate friend of WASHINGTON'S, and that he was also the person of whom Major ANDRE made the historical remark, "If all Americans were like him it would be impossible to conquer this country." Judge QUACKENBOS further said that the defendant was connected with a highly respectable family; that his father was a distinguished lawyer, and that his uncle was formerly a Surrogate of New-York County. He said that these facts were entitled to great consideration, character being a universal shield. He remarked that he did not wish to protect the guilty, and that neither did he wish to interpose any shield between justice and its victim. He had entered into the investigation, however, solely from the conviction that his client was entirely innocent, and had invited the fullest investigation, knowing that just in proportion as light was thrown upon the entire transaction, so the innocence of Mr. MULLIGAN would be the more apparent. He alluded to the fact that he had offered to place the defendant on the witness stand for the purpose of eliciting the truth, and that he had also offered to bring R. B. CALDWELL from Canada to testify in MULLIGAN'S behalf, provided the Government would grant him immunity from arrest. He would not say that the District-Attorney, for refusing to accept his offer, was actuated by anything approaching the spirit of Lord Chief Justice SCROGGS, who silenced every attempt to impeach the future testimony of the infamous TITUS OATES, with the cry, "A stifling of the plot—a stifling of the plot!"—but he would say that he had not met with that candid cooperation in his efforts to attain all the light possible, which was, in his judgment, always becoming in a prosecuting officer. Judge QUACKENBOS proceeded to explain MULLIGAN'S connection with R. B. CALDWELL and his innocence respecting the Richards claim. He subsequently reviewed the evidence for the defence, and also the evidence of KORN, for the Government, in which connection he referred to the rule laid down by GAMBIER in his treatise on Moral Evidence, as follows: "If what is related is possible, but under all the circumstances involved in some doubt, the testimony of the greater number of unimpeachable witnesses is requisite to render it credible." After asserting that there was nothing in MULLIGAN'S case to show any intention on his part to defraud the Government, he went on to say that the District-Attorney would only attach crime to the intention, and that in doing so his client would be entitled to a prompt and held an inquest during the day, when it was ascertained that the misguided man had taken prussic acid, though no clue to the motive, except that of disappointed love, could be discovered. A verdict of suicidal death was accordingly rendered.

THE JOHNSON BOND CASE

Further Developments—Singular Proceedings by Justice Dowling.

It will be remembered that a few weeks ago a man named BARTON H. JOHNSON was arrested and arraigned before Justice HOGAN on a charge of having sold two $5,000 United States bonds, alleged to have been stolen, to Messrs. CAROLIN O'BRYAN, BRYANT and JOHN H. HAND. The accused was held for examination to take place on Monday next. Yesterday some further developments were had before Justice DOWLING, when Detectives FARLEY, of the Central Office, and DOYLE, of JAY COOKE & Co.'s office, brought Mr. WM. A. COIT, a broker of No. 4 Pine-street, and WM. H. CHESLEY, also a broker, before that Magistrate.

Mr. COIT then stated that he had purchased $15,000 worth of the United States bonds stolen from the Berkshire Insurance Company at Poughkeepsie, from CHESLEY, and the latter stated in turn that he had obtained the bonds from JOHNSON. The Magistrate considered a moment, and glancing at the clock, said to the Clerk, "Make out a complaint."

CLERK—Against whom, Sir?

MAGISTRATE—Against this man, (pointing to Mr. CHESLEY.)

The Clerk proceeded to draw up an affidavit, using Mr. COIT as the complainant, Mr. CHESLEY seeming much astonished at the singular turn of affairs, and as the Magistrate was stepping into the Court room, after signing a commitment for the accused, and asked if he could not put in bail.

MAGISTRATE—Certainly. I am here to accept bail, if you have it, in the sum of $20,000.

CHESLEY—But I haven't got bail here just now, though if I am given time I will readily furnish $120,000 bail.

MAGISTRATE—Well, I can't help it. I am in a hurry and can't wait.

As Justice DOWLING left the Court, Mr. CHESLEY took a calm survey of the spectators, the Clerk, the detectives and Mr. COIT, and exclaimed: "Well, this is a pretty piece of business. I am at your disposal, gentlemen."

The complaint being finished, the prisoner was removed to Police Headquarters.

Skating Yesterday.

There was a large attendance of skaters at MACMILLAN'S Open Rink, corner Fifth-avenue and Forty-fifth-street, yesterday, though but few of the participants were ladies. The ice was in very fair condition, notwithstanding the softening tendency of the weather during the day, and those who took advantage of the occasion enjoyed fine sport. Among the prominent experts of the New-York Club who took part in the amusement were CHEESEMAN, MEAD and FRANK SWIFT, whose graceful evolutions were witnessed with much interest. MACMILLAN'S is the only pond now in the full tide of successful operation" in the City. The Poultry show having closed at the Empire Rink, however, preparations will soon be commenced for fitting it up for Winter. There is no skating at Central Park as yet.

More Railroads Projected for the City and Westchester County.

A number of property owners along the east side of Westchester County, and capitalists of this City, after an interchange of views in regard to the existing necessities of better railroad facilities of communication between the lower section of this City and the various towns of Westchester County, especially on the Sound shore, as well as through the City itself from the Harlem River to the Battery, purpose holding a meeting at the office of S. DINGEE, Esq., No. 9 Pine-street, on Thursday next, 16th inst., for the purpose of organizing a new railroad company, having for its object the construction of an elevated railway from the Battery to the Harlem River, and thence a surface railroad to Port Chester, connecting also at Mamaroneck with another railroad which it is proposed to build in the direction of Danbury, Conn. It is the intention of the new Company to apply to the Legislature of this State, at the approaching session, for authority to build bridges across navigable streams.

Embezzlement of Letters by a Mail Carrier.

Special Agent GAYOR made a complaint before United States Commissioner SHIELDS, yesterday, charging a Post Office carrier named JAMES R. HOBBY, Jr., with having embezzled several letters intrusted to his care for delivery. The complainant said that he had discovered a large package of letters, nearly fifty in number; that they were found secreted under a stone near the corner of Forty-seventh-street and Third-avenue, and that he believed that they had been embezzled and placed there by the accused, having never reached the persons to whom they were addressed. At the suggestion of Assistant District-Attorney PURDY, the prisoner was held in $5,000 bail to appear for examination on Monday next.

Board of City Canvassers.

The Board met at 11 A. M. yesterday, Mr. HARDY in the chair.

The Clerk announced that a large number of returns were still missing, and the Sergeant-at-Arms was ordered to notify the Canvassers of the various districts to bring in their returns forthwith.

Communications were received from V. EVERIT, protesting against the counting of the votes in the Fourth District for Police Justice, on account of fraud; from L. WILEY, protesting against the counting of the votes in the Ninth Judicial District, also on account of fraud; and from JOSEPH BUPP, protesting against counting the votes for either WILEY, McQUADE or IVES in the Ninth District, on the ground that many of the votes were illegally canvassed, and were credited to the opponents when they should have been given to himself.

The protests were referred to the Committee on Protests.

The Board then proceeded to canvass the returns from the Fourth and Eighth Aldermanic Districts, after which they adjourned to this morning.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

No. 10.—The City of New-Orleans, plaintiff in error, vs. The New-York Mail Steamship Company.—Error to the Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana. The New-York Mail Steamship Company rented of the military municipal authorities of New-Orleans, soon after the Federal occupation of that city, certain wharves and piers for the use of their transports. The reinstated civil city Government, in April, 1868, by ordinance, directed the City Surveyor to remove all the buildings and other obstructions erected on these piers by the lessees, disregarding the authority under which they were in possession; and in pursuance of such instructions the improvements were demolished. The Steamship Company immediately instituted this suit, claiming twenty thousand dollars damages, and obtained an injunction restraining further proceedings on the part of the city authorities. The city also commenced a suit in a State Court, and obtained an injunction restraining the Company from further use and occupancy under their lease, and thereupon the Steamship Company filed a supplemental petition setting forth the commencement of the action of the city, upon which they obtained an order from the Circuit Court directing the city authorities to discontinue their suit, or to show cause why they should not be punished as for a contempt. Subsequently the Mayor filed a sworn answer to the motion, disavowing any intention to disobey the first injunction order, and stating that the buildings, &c., had been removed before its service upon him, and also setting up that the object of the suit commenced by the city was simply to prevent the further erection of buildings by the Steamship Company and to maintain the then status of affairs. Afterward, the city filed another one on the merits, denying the authority of the military Mayor to remove, encumber, or alienate the real property of the City, beyond the period of his appointment, and claiming that all such acts done by him ceased to be of any force or effect when the administration of the government of the city was restored to the municipal authorities elected under the laws of Louisiana. It was further alleged that the lease was void, because none of the formalities prescribed by law and the ordinances of the city had been complied with. The prayer was that the lease be set aside and annulled. The Steamship Company, and the injunction restraining the city from further interference was continued during the term of the lease. From that judgment writ of error is taken to this Court, and upon the coming on of the case to be heard this Court suggested doubt as to jurisdiction, and declined to hear argument on the merits until that question had been passed upon. The Court to make the decree entered.

L. Janin and E. Van Sickle for plaintiff in error; James Emott for the Steamship Company.

No. 12.—John H. Ingle, Administrator de bonis non, et al., vs. Zephaniah Jones.—Appeal from the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. This is a creditor's bill, filed for the purpose of obtaining an order of sale to dispose of the real estate of one DERMOTT, of whom Ingle is administrator, for the payment of debts, because of the insufficiency of the personal estate. The suit is brought as auxiliary to a judgment at law, which is relied upon as conclusive of the debt alleged by the complaining creditors, the jury in that action having fixed the amount at about $20,000. The suit resulting in favor of the complainant, the case is brought here, the administrator contending that this being a suit in equity by a sole complainant, to sell real estate to pay a debt of fifteen years' standing, it is clearly barred by limitation if it cannot be supported by the judgment at law; and it is submitted that the final injunction restraining the plaintiffs in error and not effect in this suit.

Bradly & Davidge for appellant, R. J. Brent for appellee.

No. 101.—The City of New-Orleans, Plaintiff in Error, vs. The New-York Mail Steamship Company.—Error to the Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana. The writ of error in this cause was to-day dismissed, the Court holding that, to give jurisdiction of the cause, it should have been brought up by appeal.

No. 18.—The Western Union Telegraph Company vs. The United States Telegraph Company.—Appeal from the Circuit Court for the Southern District of Ohio. Appeal dismissed on motion, with costs.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

FORFEITURE—INTERPRETATION OF ACT OF 1868.

The United States vs. A Quantity of Distilled Spirits and other Property, found at No. 133 Mott-street.—This was an information tried before a jury for the forfeiture of the above property, consisting of distilled spirits, empty barrels, and the apparatus and utensils found at the above number, the establishment of one Ambrose O'Neil, a wholesale liquor dealer. The Government claimed a forfeiture on account of the neglect of the claimant to erase the stamps from barrels containing liquor at the time of emptying them, and also because the book which he was required by law to keep, was not kept correctly. The information was drawn under the forty-third and ninety-sixth sections of the act of July 20, 1868. The defence set up by O'Neil had no intention to defraud the Government, and the case turned in large measure upon the meaning of the phrase, "knowingly and willfully," in the statute. The Court charged the jury with reference to the present case, that if the claimant was not that the claimant knew the law, but that he knew the fact that the stamp was not erased, and that the omission was his act or neglect; that it was of no consequence that he did not intend to defraud the Government. The jury returned a verdict for the Government, as to the empty barrels, the distilled spirits and other liquors, and for the claimant as to the rest of the property.

For the Government, Assistant District-Attorney Simonds; for the claimants, Mr. Rollins.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.—DEC. 10.

ACTION FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF A WILL—WM. H. SEWARD AS A PARTY PLAINTIFF.

Wm. H. Seward and George M. Greer, Executors, &c., of the last Will and Testament of Samuel J. Seward, deceased, vs. Edwin P. Seward and about fifty other Defendants.—This action has been brought for the purpose of obtaining the decree of a Court of Equity as to the construction of the will of Samuel J. Seward, which was admitted to probate in Orange County, this State, in the year 1849. There is a large amount of property involved, principally real estate, and the question of the distribution thereof among the numerous heirs, legatees, &c., is to be determined in this suit. An injunction restraining the transfer of any portion of the property was obtained soon after the commencement of the action. When it was called on in the regular day in due course to-day, a motion was made to postpone the trial for various reasons: First, that Mr. Brewster, one of the counsel, was confidentially absent; and second, that the Ex-Secretary of State, Mr. Wm. H. Seward, is a necessary and material witness. Also, that certain testimony the parties could not safely proceed to trial, that the gentleman named is at present somewhere in the so-called Republic of Mexico, and will not probably return to this country for several weeks.

After some discussion on the question of adjournment, Judge CARDOZO said that under the circumstances he thought there should be a postponement of the trial, but that the injunction must stand. Upon the defendants stipulating in open Court that the injunction shall stand until the case can be heard on the merits, he would order that the case be considered on, and that it stand over to the first Monday in February next, at 10:30 A. M., when the trial to be proceeded with as the first cause. The stipulation having been made and filed, and the order duly entered with the Clerk, the Court adjourned.

For the plaintiffs, Mr. F. W. Stoughton and Mr. Clarence A. Seward; for the defendants, Mr. Brewster.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART II.—DEC. 10.

SHORT CAUSE DAY—WHAT THE COURT THINKS OF SOME SHORT CAUSES.

Washington Bilt et al. vs. Victor Linkert.—To-day they had in the two Supreme Court Circuits about two hundred causes on the day calender, which are termed "short causes." By the rules of the Court, which every lawyer must be familiar with, the trial, consisting of the opening, taking testimony, summing up by counsel, and the charge of the Judge, must not occupy over one hour. If more than that time is consumed, the case may, in the discretion of the Judge, be interrupted and sent to the foot of the general calendar, with costs against the party who has imposed upon the Court and jury. After the taking of a few inquests, the case above named was called on and a jury impaneled. Judge CLERKE had a day in this case, as in all the others, to the counsel heavy calendar, with the Court room crowded to suffocation with parties, their lawyers and witnesses, he would hold counsel strictly to the one hour rule. The case was opened and the testimony on the part of the plaintiffs commenced. It transpired that it was a very petty suit about some rotten poultry, involving the sum of $68 only. The hour having been consumed and no one being able to see the end of the trial Judge Clerke made an order that it be suspended; that the case be sent to the foot of the general calendar, and the party who put the case on pay all costs and expenses. In thus disposing of the action, the Judge said, in the first place, it was not a case that should be brought in the Supreme Court. There are petty Courts scattered all over the City for the trial of such minor cases. The counsel who had committed such a blunder deserved to have the case delayed, although it might be hard on his client.

Vernon & Wilcox for plaintiffs; Messrs. Briggs & Dicosy for defendant.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM—DEC. 10.

A MARRIAGE FOR MONEY.

Margaret Black vs. Samuel Black.—This case came up on a motion on behalf of the defendant to set aside a writ of ne exeat, granted by Judge FITHIAN against him (defendant) for refusing to pay alimony to plaintiff. It appeared by defendant's papers that when the plaintiff instituted proceedings to procure a divorce, it was understood that she would release him from the payment of alimony, he having, as alleged, in lieu thereof, paid to Wm. J. Fisher (an alleged patent divorce man) the sum of $200, to be given to her, but which it is charged the lawyer kept. The plaintiff is now charged with living with another man as his wife. The ground on which the decree of divorce was obtained was that of adultery; and she further alleged in her affidavit that he was "too old for her," and that she married him solely for his money, being under the impression that he was wealthy. She says she never stipulated not to apply for alimony, but, on the contrary, she instructed her attorney to apply for it. It is claimed that the defendant, who is a gold plater and electrotyper, is now in indigent circumstances, and wholly unable to pay alimony. The Court took the papers and reserved its decision.

THE BININGER CASE—THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPT COURT VS. THE SUPERIOR COURT.

Clarke vs. Bininger.—A motion was made in this case to punish the defendant for contempt. It will be remembered, as already reported in the TIMES, that at the suit of the plaintiff, a receiver had been appointed by the Superior Court, and placed in possession of the copartnership property. Subsequently application was made by some of the creditors of the firm (with the assent of defendant, it is claimed,) to place the firm in bankruptcy, and in pursuance of this application the usual order was granted by the Bankrupt Court directing the United States Marshal to take possession of the same partnership property. In pursuance of this order some slight conflict arose between the United States officers and the receiver, and the latter was served with an order of the Superior Court appointing a receiver. It is stated on the part of the plaintiff that the defendant, having a knowledge of the property being in possession of the receiver appointed by the Superior Court, and having, notwithstanding such knowledge, sought a counter order from the United States Court, and engaged its execution, he became thereby guilty of contempt of the Superior Court.

Affidavits were read showing that some slight conflict had occurred in the attempt of the Marshal's deputies to oust the Sheriff's officers who were acting in aid of the receiver, the result of which was that the Marshal's officers got ousted themselves. There was an affidavit read on the part of Mr. Bininger extenuating himself from any knowledge or intent to commit a contempt of the Court, and an adjournment was asked for, with a view to prepare further affidavits.

Mr. Bangs, who was the attorney engaged in prosecuting the proceedings in the Bankrupt Court, made a statement in the course of the argument, in which he disclaimed any intention to countenance a conflict of jurisdiction in the orm in which it had occurred. The order, he said, had been handed in to the Marshal's office by a person taken than himself, and without any instructions as to the Sheriff's officers being in charge; and as soon as the Marshal became aware of the fact he at once (as he (counsel) did, discountenanced the proceeding, and said the matter must be settled in the ordinary course of legal proceedings. He (Mr. Bangs) would be the first to cooperate with the Court to discourage all such violent proceedings, reserving whatever question a conflict of jurisdiction might arise to be discussed and decided in a proper and legitimate form before the proper tribunal.

Judge MCCUNN, in granting an adjournment to the 20th instant, took occasion to say that it was plain to him, from what was presented on both sides, that the firm was perfectly solvent.

Mr. Bangs, interrupting.—True, your Honor, but a solvent debtor may commit an insolvent act which will entitle a creditor to place him in bankruptcy.

Judge McCunn.—Certainly he may; but I think it very unwise for these men to be wasting their property in a contest before the Courts when, if they would only calmly and rationally confer together, they might readily arrive at a satisfactory understanding and release their property from the clutches of the law.

The further hearing of the motion stands adjourned until the 20th instant.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

John Riley, who was convicted of stealing ten $1,000 five-twenties from Alfred Colville & Co., was sentenced yesterday to five years imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

Louis Deig, charged by Mr. Bergh, with driving a horse unfit for use and for cruelly treating it, was fined $50.

James Hines, for same offence, with mitigating circumstances, was fined $10.

Chas. Homan was remanded for stealing $70 from James Dempsey.

CITY COURT—BROOKLYN.

Before Judge Thompson.

SUIT BY A BROKER AGAINST A CUSTOMER.

Seba M. Bogert vs. William Bouton.—The plaintiff, who is a stock broker doing business in Broadstreet, brought suit against the defendant to recover $1,800, which he claimed was due to him for commissions and advances made by him for defendant's account.

Plaintiff claimed that defendant instructed him to sell 100 Erie short in October, 1868; that immediately after this the stock rose and exhausted the margin which defendant had deposited with plaintiff, of which plaintiff notified him, and that thereupon defendant directed him to borrow other stock and make good his contract, or to take such other measures as would get defendant out of trouble. Defendant claimed that he never authorized Mr. Bogert to sell the Erie short, and that Bogert should have notified him when he bought in the stock.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount claimed.

G. T. Jenks and D. G. Wild for plaintiff; Bunnell, Kings & Lathrop for defendant.

FRIDAY, Dec. 10—P. M.

The early sales of Gold to-day were at a concession of ⅛@¼ ₱ cent. from the last price, 123¼ ₱ cent., of yesterday, and the market dragged through the forenoon at 123 @122½ ₱ cent. Later in the day the bidding improved to 123⅜@123½ ₱ cent., the market at 4 o'clock standing the same as last night, 123½ ₱ cent. The amount of business done in the Gold Room is not very large. The prevailing feeling is against any important advance in the market this side of the New Year, although at the same time there is no decided inclination to act upon any very bearish view of the future of the market. Indeed, there is no prominent interest manifest on the Street, just now, in favor of much lower figures for Gold. It is equally difficult to get up a sensation in the opposite direction, so that the influence of the daily sales of the Treasury is to hold the market comparatively steady. The amount bid for at the Treasury to-day was $3,807,000, from which the following awards were made as to the highest bidders. Next week the Treasury will sell the further sums of $1,000,000 on Tuesday, and $1,000,000 on Friday, and will purchase for the Sinking Fund $2,000,000 United States Five-twenties on Wednesday, and $1,000,000 on Thursday.

Further orders for U. S. 5-20s and other Public Funds of the United States from Frankfort and London to-day caused a large offering of Exchange, and the London rates are, 60 days, 108, and short sight, 108½@109 ₱ cent. for the leading names. The Cotton market comes firmer from Liverpool, which contributes to the prospective easy supply of Exchange on England. On Paris the rates are, f.5.22½ to the dollar, 60 days, and f.5.19½@f.5.18¾ to the dollar, short sight.

Money is in easy supply at 7 ₱ cent. as the rule among the Stock Brokers, with exceptions at 6 ₱ cent., where lenders voluntarily tender their balances on call. Merchant paper of very choice names can be discounted outside of Bank at 8@10 ₱ cent.; fair single signatures, 12@14 ₱ cent.

The Public Funds advanced on the 5-20s of 1867 to 116¼ ₱ cent., and on the Currency 6 ₱ cents (loaned to the Pacific Roads) to 109 ₱ cent. and interest. The principal business in 5-20s was in the 1867s, the other issues being comparatively quiet at yesterday's quotations. The Cable quotations came very strong in the Afternoon, and without apparent reference to the New-York market for either Bonds or Gold. The 1867s marked the highest figure in London this Afternoon yet reported—86¼ ₱ cent. In our own market further orders were acted upon for the long 6 ₱ cents of 1881 and the 5 ₱ cents 10-40s at the full rates of yesterday.

The Railway speculation at the Stock Exchange was somewhat quiet in the forenoon, but later in the day the turn was improved on nearly all the Western Stocks and on Reading, New-Jersey Central and New-York Central Stock and Scrip. The Western list was especially buoyant on the St. Pauls and Lake Shore, and firm on the Northwests. The additional rise on Reading was to 100½ ₱ cent., and on New-Jersey Central the advance was from 90@92½ ₱ cent. In the Southern State Bonds there was some improvement in both Tennessees and North Carolinas. Both these Stocks have come to be quite a "fancy" in the market, and nothing better so far as public confidence is concerned in the present conduct of and legislation upon the finances of either State.

After the late Boards the following quotations were made as compared with the last prices of Thursday night:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

The French "Yellow Book" has just been published in Paris. It regards the condition of France as favorable, and says her relations with foreign countries are more amicable since the Conference on the Greek and Turkish question. On American matters the book says that France used her influence with the United States to bring about peace between Spain and the Pacific Republics, but the sympathy in the United States and South America with the Cuban insurgents complicated the settlement....The Corps Legislatif was the scene of another stormy debate, springing from a demand for the impeachment of M. FORCADE, the Minister of the Interior. The scene which followed is described as unparalleled in the annals of the Chamber, and an adjournment was effected amid great excitement....The London Times suggests the appointment of such men as GEORGE TICKNOR CURTIS and WILLIAM M. EVARTS to state the facts and the law in the Alabama case. The Edinburgh Scotsman has a report that Lord CLARENDON will soon reopen negotiations for the settlement of the claims.... A dispatch from Rome says that the Pope, in an allocution before the Bishops, in speaking of the strength of "false human science and impiety," declared that there was nothing to fear, "because the Church was stronger even than Heaven."

CONGRESS.

The House alone was in session yesterday. A number of bills and resolutions of minor importance were introduced. Among them was another bill to relieve political disabilities, and an additional uniform Naturalization bill. The latter was introduced by Mr. JENCKES, of Rhode Island. Another huge petition for the recognition of the Cubans as belligerents, signed by 72,000 citizens of New-York, was put in; and Mr. WOOD, who introduced it, gave notice that he should move to make it the special order for Monday. The discussion of the Census bill was resumed and continued for some time. Several changes were made in it; and, at 3:45, the House adjourned till to-day.

GENERAL.

A Havana dispatch says that letters have fallen into the hands of the Spanish authorities in which General GOICOURIA demands from residents of Havana sums of money varying from $2,000 to $10,000, to be sent in care of the American Consul at Nassau. General CESPEDES has issued a proclamation urging Cubans to destroy their tobacco and sugar crops, in order to deprive the Spaniards of the revenue from them.

On Thursday evening, at 6 o'clock, the County Treasurer's Office, Tama County, Iowa, was entered by two men, who seized Deputy Sheriff CAMERY, who was alone in the office, by the throat, dashed his head against the safe and stabbed him three times, and then robbed the place of $8,000. Fears are felt for Mr. CAMERY'S life.

The robbers who, a day or two ago, murdered the cashier of the bank in Gallatin, Mo., and another man, only succeeded in obtaining $5.

Mr. SEWARD and his traveling party arrived in the City of Mexico Nov. 15, and was received at the railway station by President JUAREZ, his Cabinet, and a Committee of the notables of the city. On the 18th Mr. SEWARD was the guest of the United States Minister, Mr. NELSON, at a banquet, and on the 27th a grand banquet was given at the Palace by the President, at which the members of the Cabinet and other prominent persons were present. Mr. SEWARD would probably leave Mexico about the 10th inst.

The season just closed presents a sad record for the Gloucester, Mass., fishermen. Sixteen vessels were wrecked, involving a pecuniary loss of more than $64,000; and fifty-six fishermen were drowned, leaving twenty-two widows and twenty-eight fatherless children.

Two barkeepers in a Boston hotel have just been sentenced to pay a fine of $50 each, with three months' imprisonment in the House of Correction added in the case of one of them, for selling liquor.

The Attorney-General of Pennsylvania has consented to the issue of a writ of error in the case of Dr. SCHOEPPE, under sentence of death for the murder of a young woman, returnable Jan. 1, 1870

A wooden building in Boston was burned yesterday morning, and a boy and a girl, aged respectively 4 years and 3 months, were suffocated.

The crew of a schooner lying at St. John, N. B., consisting of the Captain, DERNIER, and IRVING MCFARLANE and HAYES, seamen, made a fire in a stove in the hold on Thursday night, closed the hatches and went to sleep. On Friday morning they were found dead.

In the case of J. NELSON LUCKEY against the "New-York Tribune Association" for libel said to have been printed in a regular Court report, tried before Judge LAPPAN, at Poughkeepsie, the jury yesterday returned a verdict for the plaintiff.

A man named DRYDEN, suspected of complicity in the murder of a family near Kingsville, Mo., about six weeks ago, was shot dead on Wednesday night on his farm, near Kingsville, by five unknown and mounted men.

The Internal Revenue Bureau issued, during November, 583,600 distilled spirit stamps, valued at $5,000,000, and tobacco stamps valued at $1,800,000.

The Committee on Foreign Affairs have for two days had the French Atlantic Cable and the manner of landing the American end under consideration, but they have referred the matter to one of their number who was recently in France, and who made himself familiar with the whole subject. The Committee will probably sustain the views set forth in the Annual Message on this subject.

LOCAL.

A motion was made yesterday in the Superior Court, in the Clarke-Bininger suit, to punish the defendant for contempt for attempting to have an order of the Bankrupt Court executed against property already under the jurisdiction of one of the State Courts. The further hearing was adjourned to the 20th inst.

A stay of proceedings in the case of OWEN HAND, the murderer, who was to have been hanged in Brooklyn next Friday, was granted by Judge GILBERT yesterday. The writ takes the case over until February.

The adjourned motion for the discharge of the Spanish gunboats came on yesterday in the United States District Court, before Judge BLATCHFORD. Judge PIERREPONT, on behalf of the Government, stated that he intended to withdraw the prosecution, as the cessation of hostilities between Spain and Peru disposed of the cause of action. The Judge formally ordered the discharge of the gunboats.

A letter-carrier named JAMES R. HOBBY, Jr., was brought before Commissioner SHIELDS yesterday on the charge of embezzling letters intrusted to his care for delivery.

A coöperative association of the working people of this City was formed last evening under the name of the Chamber of Coöperative Industry, of which NELSON W. YOUNG was chosen President.

Among the passengers that arrived by the Allemannia yesterday was Senator FENTON. His friends boarded the vessel below the Narrows, and congratulated him on his return. He proceeds at once to Washington.

SAMUEL T. BLATCHFORD has been held to await the action of the Grand Jury on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the Government, having previously waived an examination. There is no truth in the newspaper reports that he would make revelations to District-Attorney PIERREPONT, implicating prominent persons in the drawback frauds, or that he would be taken as a Government witness. ROMEYN MULLIGAN was held in $10,000 bail yesterday, to await the action of the Grand Jury, on the charge of being a party to the frauds.

The Release of the Gunboats.

Even those who sympathize most ardently with the insurgents in Cuba will admit, if they take the trouble to look carefully into all the facts, that the Government has placed itself in a very strong position by its course in reference to the Spanish gunboats. A serious danger has been avoided. Had we followed the example of other nations, we should have allowed the popular sympathy for Cuba to override principles of law and justice. The good wishes of the American people were naturally with the leaders of a party which desired to get rid of a bad Government, and construct another on the model of this Republic. A sentiment of this kind cannot be controlled by Cabinets, but it is the duty of every honest Government to restrain it from leading a nation into a breach of faith. It is in that respect, as we have always alleged, that the Government of England failed, and the facts too thoroughly sustain our accusation. Lord PALMERSTON and his colleagues stood by, idly, while hostile cruisers were fitted out against us. We demand reparation, and while we are demanding it, there are those who would force us into committing similar obnoxious acts ourselves. They first of all insisted that we ought to send relief to the Cuban insurgents, and, failing that, they called upon the Government to seize the gunboats built here by Spain, for the express purpose of weakening that Power, and of giving succor to her insurrectionary subjects.

Had the President yielded to this pressure, he would have been bitterly reproached hereafter by the very men who have tried to influence his judgment in favor of intervention. They, like everybody else, would have seen that we had completely destroyed all the effect of our remonstrances with England. We should have practically acknowledged that our case was fabricated to suit the purposes of the hour. Fortunately we are in no such position to-day. We have acted with perfect impartiality toward all parties. Upon a complaint of the Peruvian Minister, the gunboats were detained until the circumstances in connection with them could be judicially inquired into. It has now been found that the complaint on the part of Peru cannot be sustained, and Judge BLATCHFORD has ordered the immediate release of the boats.

We do not call the attention of our foreign contemporaries to this incident as an example of generosity on our part, or as anything to boast loudly about. We have simply been guided by a strict regard for justice—but in so doing we have made a precedent very different from that which was set up by England in the Alabama case. If England should say to us now, "You have done nothing to be particularly proud of," we should reply "Perhaps not—but it is much to be desired that you had exhibited a little more of our spirit between 1861 and 1864. We have only administered the laws faithfully—but in doing that we deviated as widely as possible from your example." Although our course now cannot undo the mischief done to us by pirate cruisers, it will have its effect in future history. We have proved that, if we will not allow other nations to aggrieve us, we, on our part, will do no wrong to them. Some hundreds of vessels, and a vast amount of property, would have been saved from wanton destruction, if Lord PALMERSTON and Lord RUSSELL had acted as President GRANT and Secretary FISH have just done. We have at least strengthened our claims for indemnification. If these gunboats should be used against Cuba, it would be a source of much regret to us. But there was only one course which we could pursue without dishonor, and we have taken it, leaving every secondary consideration out of sight.

The Public Indictment of the Bar.

It has been charged, and not denied, that the failure of the late efforts to improve the Judiciary came mainly from the lack of cooperation on the part of the Bar. The only show of defence has been a plea that is really an aggravation. It has been urged that bad Judges are vindictive, and are sure to punish any personal opposition by retaliating upon the Court business of their opponent.

Now, we are always willing to make due allowance for the infirmity of poor human nature and the pressure of adverse circumstance, but really this plea is too bad for any charitable acceptance. It is equivalent to an assumption that the legal profession has no duties to the public superior to individual selfishness. No one would venture to impute this to any other profession. No one thinks that our physicians would refuse to join in efforts to keep out a pestilence because, forsooth, a good, swinging pestilence would benefit their business. We doubt whether even "the wickedest man" would like to say of our clergymen that they would take hush money of the devil. As to our editors, their papers would be universally trampled under foot if private pelf could buy them off from upholding needful public measures.

The legal profession have always made large claim to the possession of public principle and public spirit; and that claim has been accorded to them by the people, as is proved by the uniform predominance of lawyers in every sphere of public preferment. So much was that consummate observer, DE TOCQUEVILLE, impressed by the credit and influence which lawyers enjoyed in the United States, that he even styled them the real aristocracy of the country. There is abundant reason for such superior influence. The studies and pursuits of the profession have to do especially with those great moral and social principles which form the very basis of our free institutions. A mind forever under the light of the reason and right which make up jurisprudence, can hardly fail, one would say, of imbibing much of their nature, and of being nobly elevated and expanded. We have a right to expect that the lawyer, of all men, will have feelings ever alive to the duties of a man and a citizen. This, we believe, has always been a characteristic of the true lawyer everywhere. The biographer of Sir WILLIAM BLACKSTONE, the great commentator on the laws of England, says of him: "In his public line of life, he approved himself perfectly acquainted with the laws of his country, and making them the invariable rule of his conduct—averse to party violence, and moderate in his sentiments. He was ever an active and judicious promoter of whatever he thought useful or advantageous to the public in general, or to any particular society or neighborhood he was connected with; and having not only a sound judgment, but the clearest ideas, and the most analytical head that any man, perhaps, was ever blessed with, these qualifications, joined to an unremitting perseverance in pursuing whatever he thought right, enabled him to carry many beneficial plans into execution which would have failed had they been attempted by other men." In all this, BLACKSTONE was just the type of the true lawyer. His public spirit and public principle should be repeated in the public relations of every man who drinks from the same pure fountains.

But if our Bar, in some strange way, have fallen below all such legitimate influences there is an enlightened self-interest which might fairly be expected to reach them. Nothing is more certain than that the clientage of lawyers must dwindle just in proportion to the deterioration of Courts. People go to law to secure what they deem to be their rights. That is the only inducement to all the expense and trouble of litigation. Even at best that inducement has been long losing force. The law, even when honestly administered, is proverbially uncertain. Its construction and application can very seldom be known beforehand. Looking at this uncertainty, even Lord BACON is obliged to admit that there is truth in the "common resemblance of Courts of justice to the bush, whereunto, while the sheep flies for defence in stormy weather, he is sure to lose part of his fleece." It is notorious that prudent men generally have long preferred to submit to almost any wrong in their transactions rather than invoke so uncertain and losing a remedy. If this suspicion of the written law be reinforced by the full knowledge of the rottenness of the Judges who pretend to administer it—if the idea once becomes established that a case at law stands simply as a bribing match, turning this side or that, on the chance of outbidding or of being outbidden, Courts of law will be avoided as much as gambling hells by all men who care for their money or reputation. The inevitable result of this sinking of the character of the Judges must be a tremendous reaction against the Bar and its business—a reaction carrying a thousandfold greater damage than any gain to be derived from the unworthy silence and collusion which so many now think expedient.

This demoralization of the Bar is one of the most sickening aspects of the curse. It is bad enough to know that this hideous abomination of a rotten Judiciary is fast leading society to an unfathomable abyss of degradation and disaster. This is bad enough without having to reflect that it has already conquered the grand profession of the law—so subdued the minds of lawyers that no resource presents itself to them, but entitling themselves to a contemptuous mercy, by a display of their imbecility and meanness—that they do not seem to hope, do not even appear to wish the extinction of what subsists to their certain ruin, their ambition being only to be, for the time, the most favored class, in the order of subserviency.

It is our firm conviction that if our lawyers would unite, in something of their old public vigor, with the better class of citizens, the gigantic evil would be sent to the earth powerless. They best know the vulnerable parts of the monster, and they possess the surest weapons. If the profession be past any such revival of high sentiment, there is yet "a generous despair" which, as history tells us, has sometimes served States in an extremity. If we can do no better, we will be thankful for even this, and try to make the best of it. Though it were unavailing, its generous element would at least be some relief from the present cheerless expanse of sordidness. Even the faintest offshoot of a healthy germ in any corner of our Courts of justice would be hailed as a token that their dust and smut are not altogether irredeemable.

The East River Collision—Have the Ferries Any Rights?

Were the effects of the ill-feeling so often exhibited between tugs and ferry boats plying on the East and North Rivers confined to their officers and owners, we should not feel called upon to discuss the matter. But the public has an interest, and a very large one, in this animosity. The other day, one of the Catharine-street ferry boats was struck by a tugboat, in the middle of the river. The water poured into the hole, which was "as large as a hogshead," and only the prompt use of the pumps saved the boat from sinking. The boat was filled with passengers, and a funeral procession was also on the boat at the time. That "nobody was hurt" was rather a fortunate issue from an accident whose predecessors of that sort during the past year, have not all turned out so luckily.

The ferry boats seem to be popularly regarded on the rivers as having no rights which other craft are bound to respect. So far as concerns the boats themselves, we care little what may be the prevalent sentiment on this subject. But the boats carry passengers, and their rights the other occupants of the river are bound to respect. One of these rights is to be transported without being drowned, and another is the right to travel on the river without being maliciously delayed. We admit that, by reason of the monopoly of route conceded to the ferry boats, they are bound not to interfere with the other travel on the river, and, other things being equal, they must always be the party to give way. In the case of ships under sail, the fact of the ferry boats using steam settles this question on an additional ground.

But the ferry boats are not to be purposely and maliciously delayed by other vessels. We are now forced to depend on these boats for connection between New-York and the whole surrounding country. New-York is a great island without bridges, and of the million and a half people who are here in business, a large proportion cross the rivers in boats, to and from their homes, daily. Now, we may lament the fact that there are no bridges for this great morning and evening tide of passengers, but that will not help the fact. These hundreds of thousands of people are our witnesses to the annoyance they so often experience from the apparent malice of some little tugboat, which, having no motive for hurry, will yet take advantage of its right to cut across the bows of a ferry boat, and so force a less or longer delay upon a whole boat full of people; whose time is money. We believe that, in general, the ferry boats err, if at all, on the side of caution, and that such are the instructions given to their captains. Rather than risk collision with other vessels, they wait sometimes five or ten minutes in their slips. If this be their habitual practice, it is clear that tugs ought to offer them all facilities possible. We do not say that they need to do this out of any good feeling toward the ferry companies or their officers, but out of public spirit. So long as New-York is so dependent on her ferries, and so long as the question of quick transportation from home to business, morning and night, is so important, every facility must be furnished to the boats that carry the passengers. Small questions of "monopoly" and "right to the river" ought not to interfere with public needs. Especially is this true in the case of tugs, which are really as constant occupants of the river as the ferry boats, which can always slacken or increase their speed or turn in any direction with the greatest ease, and which in every way enjoy advantages over the ferry boats.

Pere Hyacinthe's Address.

The "cultivated" public of New-York were offered a rare intellectual treat on Thursday evening in witnessing the most perfect modern implement for the expression of thought—the French language—employed by the greatest pulpit orator of Europe. Those who had listened with such deep emotion to the earnest sermons of the eloquent Carmelite in Notre Dame, half expected here a failure. The strangeness of the place—a gaudy playhouse instead of the ancient cathedral; the unaccustomed dress; the half-foreign audience, who could not be expected to appreciate every felicitous expression, and could not possibly furnish that which is such a necessity to a French orator, —the quick and constant response of sympathy; and above all, the fact that the great orator must speak, and not touch on that which was nearest the hearts of both speaker and hearers,—his struggle with Rome,—all this was enough to have made the effort, with almost any orator, an incomplete and unsatisfactory labor. A severe cold, too, evidently tried the worthy Father's physical powers to their utmost degree. But notwithstanding all this, the orator had not spoken five minutes before it was manifest that he held himself and his audience perfectly in hand. His lowest tones,—so carefully managed was his voice,—seemed to reach the furthest gallery, and for an hour in all that vast audience there was scarcely a movement, except when a ripple of feeling passed over it at some impassioned expression, or it burst into applause at some modulated and stirring passage of eloquence.

In comparing his oration with the methods of our great preachers and orators, what at once struck one was the superior workmanship of it. The plan was most carefully constructed; and though, it is true, that owing to the exhaustion from his cold, the speaker laid his foundation and erected his substruction but was not able to complete the rhetorical edifice, yet every one saw throughout the oratorical plan of the speech. Then, though the language was extempore, there was a perfect nicety and finish through the whole oration, which none of our orators, except, possibly, WENDELL PHILLIPS, ever equals, and which they might very properly study to imitate. The very shade of thought designed seemed to be expressed, and there was none of the fatal exaggeration and hyperbole which ruins so many of our public addresses.

Père HYACINTHE, as might be expected, is superior to Mr. BEECHER in refinement of language and the expression of reverence and devotion, but hardly possesses so much of that great quality of an orator—the dramatic power—and is in no degree above his American compeer in the lofty eloquence of sentiment and the expression of the highest religious aspirations and ideals. There is a remarkable resemblance between the two preachers in the point of view from which they regard religion, and with the single exception of the Carmelite's words of reverence for his "Holy Church," there was hardly a passage in the eloquent sermon of Thursday evening which the Brooklyn Reformer might not have uttered with even the same sincerity.

If the French preacher be compared with our other orators, he seems to show more "heart" than Mr. PHILLIPS, more religious sentiment than Mr. CHAPIN, a greater nicety of language than the distinguished Methodist exhorters, and to be animated with a more impassioned eloquence than our Episcopalian divines. His power, however, is shared by all great orators,—the enthusiasm of a broad humanity overleaping all bounds of race, creed or rank. As was proper on the occasion, he said nothing of his great struggle with the reactionary tendencies of his Church. But even in speaking of "charity," he could not avoid branding celibacy as a "cowardice," and speaking in most earnest words of the great error of his Church in Europe, in separating the daily practical life of the world from the life of religion. His eulogy of marriage and of family life had almost a pathetic eloquence, and his exhortation to carry "heart" or piety into the common duties of daily life and into political duties, would have been out of place in no Protestant pulpit. Our political liberty and our Constitution received the most ardent praise; and the picture of this continent as designed by Providence to be the future mould of, not the American people, but the people, the cosmopolitan people of all races and countries,—a civilization built up on the Bible and Christianity,—was his highest flight of oratory.

The attacks which are being made upon Mr. PEABODY, for his alleged "sympathy with the aristocracy of England throughout our civil war," are not only unjust, but reveal an utter ignorance of Mr. PEABODY'S true character, as well as of the facts of his life. We shall take another opportunity of proving this assertion. At present it ought not to be necessary to plead for fair play toward the memory of a man who was undoubtedly animated by a sincere desire to relieve the sufferings of his fellow-creatures. Mr. PEABODY did his utmost to frustrate the attempts of the rebels to raise a loan in London, and invested a large part of his own property in United States securities at the darkest period of the war. At the proper time we shall give a few facts concerning him which will convince any candid reader that Mr. PEABODY is now being made the subject of most unmerited detraction.

There was great applause at the Academy of Music on Thursday evening when Père HYACINTHE, in the course of his eloquent eulogy on America, declared "You summon from walled China the unmoving people to dwell amid the moving nation, the stationary to mingle with the progressive, all impelled by the breath of you, the great humanitarian people." But even among those who applauded the eloquent period there must have been many whose consciences smote them a little at the compliment when they thought of the great San Francisco meeting of the other day, held not only to prevent the people of walled China from "mingling with the progressive" people of California, but absolutely to expel, if possible, those unfortunate Chinamen who had already come. These hearers of the eloquent priest will therefore have been comforted at seeing next morning that Governor HAIGHT, in his annual message to the California Legislature, favored the removal of all barriers to Chinese immigration as an act both of justice and policy. The sentiments of the really progressive, of the really humanitarian, and of the really sagacious accord with those of Governor HAIGHT.

The report of the Woman's Suffrage Convention in Newark reads much better than that of the late New-York meeting for the same purpose. The New-Jersey ladies, Mrs. STONE, Mrs. BLACKWELL and the others, confined themselves very sensibly to the matter of suffrage, not exasperating the question by any collateral flights of imagination or "aggravating" observations. We wish, very naturally, that our own Camarilla should exhibit itself in the business as favorably as any other engaged in it. The Newark meeting showed a number of influential gentlemen on the platform and engaged in the movement along with the women, and this was, no doubt, owing to the comparative moderation of the fair agitators of that part of the world. The ladies should not begin by alarming the fears or prejudices of "the opposite party."

Mr. DRAKE has already introduced a bill establishing uniformity in Presidential and Congressional elections. If we are going to take up the subject at all, we ought to take it up in earnest and do the work thoroughly. What is needed is a system of districts for States at Presidential elections in such a way that each district shall choose one Rector, instead of the whole State choosing electors in a body. The simplest way of effecting this would be to let each Congressional district constitute also an Electoral district, and elect one Presidential elector. In this way we should get something more like a popular vote for President than we do now. The chances for ballot-box stuffing and other fraudulent voting would also be greatly diminished by a system of districting. The elections would be at least as fair as the Congressional elections, and fraud would only affect the few districts where it was perpetrated, and not the whole State. For large States like New-York and Pennsylvania, where fraud at Presidential elections has become a regular practice, this measure is especially desirable.

It is pleasant to see that the Commissioners of Charities and Correction can afford to give the United States Volunteers the loan of the Inebriate Asylum, as it is called, with so much injustice to the building. This seems to show that the supply of drunken people has fallen off somewhat; and it is to be hoped that there may be a still more "plentiful lack" of them, and that the aforesaid building may, in the end, recover its good name by serving some better purpose. Habits of drunkenness, we believe, are destined to die out by degrees, and any poor inebriates that may still be found lingering in society may be very properly sent to the Lunatic Asylum—the best place for all crazy lovers of our alcoholic poisons.

We have not yet received the particulars of General BUTLER'S new plan of paying pensions to heirs of deceased soldiers, but its general principle seems to be that of employing the Post Office system as a means for distributing the regular payments. If the bill is drawn with sufficient care to meet this purpose, it would seem to be an admirable arrangement, both for the Government and the pensioners. As it is now, the procurement of a regular installment on a fixed pension is charged for by the pension agents, who realize a considerable income from this source—at the expense, of course, of the pensioners. It was perfectly right that, for the labor of making the original claim, the agents should be properly paid; but, now that the claims are made and the pensions granted, these latter should not be diminished by regular payments to middlemen, whose services are no longer required. If they do take the trouble to collect and pay over the regular dues, they, of course, cannot be expected to do this for nothing. General BUTLER'S plan, by relieving them from the collection, which is a very simple matter, and, employing the Post Office organization, with its ramifications through the country, to disburse pensions every two months, at the Money Order Office, on a simple order from the Pension Commissioner, will simplify matters, and save money to the pensioners.

The late illness of King VICTOR EMMANUEL of Italy, brought about by a wild boar, was a rather lucky one for his Majesty; and, even if it were extremely severe, it has had its compensation in bringing about, or preparing the way for, a reconciliation with the Pope. The excommunication of 1866 was relaxed when the "sick man" was very ill indeed, and he got absolution; but not the viaticum—for, instead of dying, he recovered. In this matter also the "first step" seems to have been the greatest difficulty; for the aforesaid potentates have been brought together on terms of communication, and, very probably, by means of some "mutual friend." They may come to terms, in due time, for the sake of their common Italy.

Senator ANTHONY, of the Committee on Printing, has promptly begun a movement for economy in a direction where economy is much needed. The printing of public documents, like the franking privilege, is one of the great abuses connected with the Treasury which Congress has hitherto retained for its own behoof. Artemus Ward was willing to sacrifice "all his wife's relatives" rather than not put down the "unnatural war"—but he evinced no disposition to enlist himself. Congress, in like fashion, cuts down expenses with a ruthless hand, when the expenses are those of other people; when it comes to their own, their pruning is done with the most cautious and the tenderest of hands. Public documents form little presents for one's constituents; and, as they can be printed at public expense and franked at public expense, Congressmen do not like to give up the advantages of such cheap and appropriate tokens of interest in their constituents. The amounts spent in public printing are very great. Congress is hardly in session those days before the expense begins in the shape of a proposition for the printing of 20,000 copies of the report of the Commissioner of Agriculture, and one for the publication of a map of the United States, to cost $200,000. Here is evidently a good opportunity for "retrenchment and reform."

It is to be hoped that Mr. CARPENTER'S bill, increasing the salary of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States to $12,000 per annum, and that of Associate Justices to $10,000 each per annum, will become a law. The present incomes of the Justices are not only far beneath those which could be commanded by them in the line of professional duty, but far below what similar attainments and service in any other profession will produce. Our treatment of the highest judicial authorities in the land is very shabby as compared with that in any other nation. We call to mind one instance in which, some years ago, one of the ablest jurists that ever graced the Supreme Bench resigned, simply because he could not afford to serve any longer at the salary given him as Associate Justice. He at once resumed the practice of law, and doubled or trebled his income without any difficulty. We must not make it a grievous pecuniary sacrifice for the ablest lawyers to accept a position in the Supreme Judicial Bench. Such a course would be likely, in some cases, to keep from it the very men most needed by the country. With a fair (not a liberal) remuneration, we may, perhaps, be able to make the Supreme Bench one object of a lawyer's ambition.

Sailing of the Ram Atlanta from Philadelphia.

From the Philadelphia Ledger, Dec. 10.

The iron-clad Atlanta left Kensington on Wednesday, and steamed down the Delaware as far as the Navy Yard, where she anchored and remained until yesterday afternoon, when she left this port for Hayti. The following are the officers of the Atlanta: Rear Admiral FRANKLIN ELLMS; W. J. Dumont, Captain; John Boyle, M. V. B. Harris and George Harrison, Lieutenants; M. P. Butts and George G. Saylor, Ensigns; George Orias, Chief Engineer; Jones Riley, second assistant; James Abbott and Isaac White, third assistants. She takes out as passengers Mrs. ELLMS, the Admiral's wife, and Mr. OAKSMITH, the contractor.

The ram Atlanta arrived at Philadelphia just after the close of the late war, and was purchased by Mr. OAKSMITH, of New-York, who has sold her to the Haytian Government. She has been thoroughly overhauled and armed with four heavy guns. She draws about eighteen feet water, and her deck is about one foot above the surface of the water. Her crew consists of 70 men. Her name has been changed to the Triumph.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

"PIPELE" AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

FERRARI'S comic opera of "Pipelè" was produced for the first time in America at the Academy last night. The work has been comparatively little heard of here, and some suspicion that it was of a slight and flimsy character may have possessed the public mind and led to a paucity of interest, which for a new opera in a successful season is somewhat unusual. This did not, however, prevent the assemblage last evening of a numerous audience, who showed every disposition to be pleased, and seconded the strenuous efforts of the performers to assure a decided success. Such a result was, on the whole, attained. The music of "Pipelè" is gay and volatile, generously sprinkled with pretty melodies and rounded off with carefully adjusted instrumentation. Some of the concerted pieces, especially the septette with chorus near the end of the first act, perhaps the finale of the second, and certainly several bits of the third act, are cleverly conceived, and, with some of the airs, will become popular. Miss KELLOGG had an opportunity, in the heroine, to appear in another original character, and acquitted herself with her customary spirit and conscientiousness. The tasteful airs intrusted to her in the first act, embellished as they are with ample opportunities for florid vocalization, were charmingly sung, and, indeed, Miss KELLOGG'S whole impersonation was exceedingly naïve and sprightly, vocally sweet and telling and dramatically consistent. Signor RONCONI'S part, that of Pipelè, affords plenty of room for those displays of eccentric humor for which he is celebrated, and if it be rather meagre and commonplace in conception, this unrivalled buffo filled up its outlines in that racy manner peculiar to himself, which never fails to please. Signor MASSIMILIANI was happy and impressive in the lover, and sang throughout with unusual purity and elegance; and Mlle. LAMI and Signori REYNA and BARILI were careful and acceptable. The orchestra and chorus were, as a rule, uncommonly good for a first representation, and deserved, and in some instances received a fair share of the applause.

The plot of "Pipelè" lacks nothing of the characteristic incoherence, puerility and bewildering confusion of cause and effect that distinguish so many operas of greater pretension. It may be briefly narrated as follows: Pipelè was a porter—for no reason that we can see, save an alliterative one. One night he went to sleep in the usual manner. Some acquaintances, led by one Cabrion, a painter, determined, through some inexplicable motive, to go and disturb him. This justified a noisy serenade, which justified Pipelè's appearance at his window in a naturally not very good humor, and, remonstrances at that point proving unavailing, his descent into the street, followed by his wife, Maddalena. But on seeing Cabrion the indignant porter mysteriously fell into a passion of fear, whereupon the crowd, impelled by a no less occult consideration, proceeded to disperse. In the meantime, apropos of nothing in particular, one Jaques Ferrand, a notary, happened to fall in love with a sewing girl, Rigoletta, because she was betrothed to his clerk, Charles. One morning early the friends of this maiden came into her room to begin their work—they usually selecting that locality for the purpose—and as a preliminary congratulated her on her prospective happiness. She accepted this with affability and also the advent of Charles, who, with natural impatience, begged her to marry him directly. At this juncture Pipelè presented himself with his wife, and told the company how he was disturbed in the night, at which they all went into paroxysms of laughter. But Charles did not laugh long, for Jaques Ferrand promptly arrived with many officers of the law, who immediately arrested Charles for doing something the nature of which was not quite clear, but which was quite enough to warrant a climax to end the first act. At this critical point in the drama, Cabrion, who had likewise a sneaking affection for Rigoletta, whose charms seem to be of a universally destructive character, "sacrificed" himself by remaining in Paris in order to defend Charles. Parisians commonly think it a sacrifice to quit Paris, not to stay in it; but Cabrion, who was of an original turn, took an opposite view of things. He obtained the assistance of Pipelè, and then by an artful contrivance, whose successive steps defy analysis or description, the conspirators allured Ferrand to a bal masqué, at which Rigoletta pretended to be Cecily, a young person with whom Ferrand was last in love. Here a paper was obtained from the amorous notary, which granted Charles his freedom, the laws of the French metropolis conveniently simplifying the usual process for the occasion. Pending this, an encouraging letter had been sent to Charles by the hand of Pipelè. This was safely conveyed, but when thereafter the messenger tried to get out of the gaol, either the other prisoners or the turnkey—by way of ending the second act—locked the door and prevented his departure. The masked ball, however, continued all the same, the plot against Ferrand was quite successful, Charles and Pipelè got out, the latter had in the interim got very drunk, but all was explained, and everything ended happily.

This ingenious and impressive fable is made the vehicle, as we have said, for much pretty music, and as given at the Academy, of not a little capital acting. "Pipelè" is anything but a wonderful opera, but it is a decidedly pleasing one, and will take rank with several of those established favorites which to many are more agreeable than the ponderous works which establish a composer's highest fame. The opera will doubtless bear frequent repetition. This afternoon "William Tell" is promised, and the unfailing crowd that announcement has hitherto collected is of course anticipated.

THE FRENCH PLAYERS.

The French players at the New-York Theatre have acted there every night of this week. Last evening they sang ADAM'S opera of "Le Sourd," and M. and Mme. MOREAU repeated the performance of "Les Jurons de Cadillac," which recently afforded so much satisfaction. ADAM'S work pleased, we should say, for the recollections it awakened rather than by the potent charm of its music, to the delicacy of which the audiences of the day are hardly alive. M. GIRREBEUCK, the tenor, bore off the honor of the representation. He had the valuable coöperation of Mme. GUERETTI

ing tour, will repeat before a local audience, at Dodworth Hall, Monday evening, a humorous lecture he has delivered elsewhere with unvarying success. The title of Mr. HOWS' paper is "Peter's Ambition."..... Mr. W. H. POPE recites "Manfred" at the National Hall, in Harlem, to-night, and figures besides with Miss E. O. PROUDFOOT in the comedietta, "Love in High Life."

TRIALS OF JUSTICES.

The New-Jersey Justices' Malfeasance Case—Proposed Change in the Laws.

The first of the trials of the Justices of the Peace in Hudson County, N. J., who were indicted for malfeasance in office, was held in the Hudson County Court of Sessions yesterday. In the Autumn of last year Judge BEASLEY rendered a decision to the effect that no Justice of the Peace could legally accept fees upon the issuance of warrants for the arrest of parties, and that neither the Justices nor the officers serving such warrants were entitled to compensation until the subject of the warrant should come before the Grand Jury. If the latter found an indictment, then the Justice and the officers could collect their fees. For a time it was practically disregarded by nearly every Justice of the Peace in the State, although its constitutionality came at length to be generally admitted. Upon the assembling of the Legislature last Winter, a bill was presented making provision for a modification of those laws, which had been found to preclude the Justices from the collection in advance of their fees. The bill passed the Lower House without difficulty, but was killed in the Senate by a small majority voting against it. No action had been taken against the Justices, however, and it was not until a few weeks ago that complaints were made before any Grand Jury touching the case. At the meeting of the Hudson County Grand Jury twenty-six Justices of Hudson County were indicted. Upon arraignment they pleaded not guilty.

Yesterday Mr. GEORGE E. CUTTER, a Justice of the Peace of Jersey City, was placed upon his trial, and his case being regarded as the test case of the entire batch of indictments, a large crowd was present. District-Attorney GARRETSON appeared for the prosecution, and Messrs. SCUDDER and SCHOFIELD for the defendant. The indictment specified that in July last Mr. CUTTER charged a fee of $1 55 for issuing a warrant for the arrest of SYDNEY JACKSON, a boy who, it is alleged, had assaulted a little girl, the daughter of Mr. FREDERICK PERSCH, of Jersey City. Mr. PERSCH was called upon the part of the State, and testified to his having paid the money to Justice CUTTER. The case was argued at the conclusion of the testimony by the counsel, and was given to the jury late in the afternoon. A verdict of guilty was rendered against the defendant.

At the next sitting of the Legislature a bill will be presented providing for the repeal or modification of the laws affecting this subject. It is expected that the result will be more favorable to the cause of the Justices than was the termination of the attempt of last Winter. In that case the opposition of certain Senators to the passage of the bill was not made upon the ground of disinclination to relieve the Justices of their disabilities, but they voted against it because it contained other provisions which were not regarded with favor. Among these was one increasing largely the Justices' fees in civil cases, and another giving them jurisdiction in cases involving sums of $200. These features will be expunged in the new bill.

The Effort to Secure the Release of Dr. Schoeppe.

Under the auspices of the German Legal Aid Society of this City, a mass meeting, attended by about 1,000 persons, was held at Steinway Hall last evening for the purpose of taking measures to secure the release of Dr. PAUL SCHOEPPE, now under sentence of death at Carlisle, Penn. Addresses were delivered by Mr. S. HERZBERG, President of the German Legal Aid Society, Hon. MARCUS OTTERBOURG, Dr. E. HERZBERG and Professor DOREMUS, and the following petition to Governor GEARY was adopted:

To the Governor of Pennsylvania:

The petition of the undersigned citizens of the United States of America respectfully represents that your petitioners have pursued with painful interest the cause of the prosecution of PAUL SCHOEPPE, of Carlisle, on charge of the murder of Miss STEINEKE; that such of your petitioners as are not citizens of the State of Pennsylvania have not ventured to take any action therein while a reasonable hope of saving the life of the accused, without their interference, remained, but understanding that a pardon of your Excellency presents the only possibility of escape, they beg most respectfully but earnestly to urge that the evidence of the death of the deceased by poison is regarded, not only by them, but by experts throughout the country, as so palpably insufficient that the execution of any person on the accusation of having administered such poison, would be an act which would reflect upon the administration of justice throughout this country and compromise us before the civilized world.

Therefore they pray that you will be pleased to pardon the said accused, and they will ever pray.

The meeting then adjourned.

Railroad Matters.

The grading and track laying of the Delaware, Lackawana and Western Railroad is partially completed west of the Passaic River to Singack, and a locomotive will soon be placed upon the road to assist in the completion. Track laying is also progressing around Garrett Mountain.

The subscription books of the Barnegat Railroad will be opened on Thursday next. Within the next three years the road, it is promised, will be completed.

Serious Affray in Newark.

CHARLES KNOLL, a saloon keeper, was arrested in Market-street, Newark, last evening, upon the complaint of WM. H. WILLIS, who stated that he had been attacked and beaten in the saloon kept by KNOLL. WILLIS bore evidence of a severe attack, his face being badly cut and bruised by the blows which he had received in the affray. KNOLL was committed to answer.

Local Items.

MRS. GALLAGHER, No. 117 Charles-street, was seriously burned last evening by the explosion of kerosene oil in a can.

MRS. HOPPER, the wife of a Baptist minister in Irvington, was assaulted by a man unknown to her a few days ago. She was walking along the road in the evening, carrying some bundles, when she was accosted by a person riding in a wagon, who called her by her name, inviting her to ride with him. She accepted his offer, and while riding with him she was indecently assaulted. The man lashed his horse to a run, attempting to take the lady into the woods near the place. She escaped from him after a struggle and leaped to the ground, receiving severe injuries.

A meeting of the Union League Association of Brooklyn, E. D., took place last evening, Major HOLMS in the chair. Resolutions pledging the support of the organization to Captain C. W. GODDARD, and indorsing him for the position of Collector of the Port of New-York, were unanimously adopted.

A workman named BENCH, who has been employed by Messrs. CARTER, HAWKINS & DODD, manufacturing jewelers, was arrested in Newark last evening upon suspicion of having robbed his employers of quantities of gold. He was committed.

Mr. M. J. A. MARQUET, formerly the Peruvian Consul at New-York, who left Newark a few weeks ago to go to Peru, was alleged to be a defaulter to his creditors, but recent investigations prove that the report is untrue. Mr. MARQUET had purchased a considerable amount of property from Newark firms, but it is stated that he gave satisfactory security.

The owners of the Camp property opposite Military Park, Newark, have been offered $80,000 for the lots by parties who propose to erect a new Opera House.

The Receiver of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad.

From the Pittsburg (Penn.) Chronicle, Dec. 9.

Judge HITCHCOCK, who has been appointed a receiver of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad, by the County Court of Common Pleas in Summit County, Ohio, is a resident of Painsville, Ohio. He succeeded to the Common Pleas Bench of his subdivision after the election of Hon. B. F. WADE to the United States Senate, now nearly twenty years ago. This position he held for years, and finally resigned to give his attention to the construction of the Cleveland and Mahoning Railroad, of which he was a prominent officer, and of which Hon. DAVID TOD was President. Upon the completion of the road as far as Youngstown, arrangements were made for leasing it to the Atlantic and Great Western road, on what were believed to be advantageous terms to both parties. By this route the broad guage road secured a line to Cleveland. Since the lease was executed, Judge HITCHCOCK has devoted himself to his profession as a lawyer. He is now between 60 and 70 years of age, and his business habits and education have been peculiarly calculated to fit him for the trust which he has lately assumed.

Hon. George A. Pearre, of Maryland.

From the Frederick (Md.) Republican, Dec. 9.

The appointment by the President of Hon. GEORGE A. PEARRE, of Cumberland, to be United States Judge for the Circuit composed of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, was an act which will meet the warmest public approval, and which will reflect the greatest credit upon General GRANT. In discharging the delicate, but important duty, the President seems to have recognised the grave responsibilities incumbent upon him, and to realize that no single act would do more to make or mar the success of his administration than the nine appointments in which Judge PEARRE'S is embraced. The importance of a sound judiciary cannot be overestimated and probably will never be fully realized until, amid the political agitations of the future, it proves the greatest safeguard alike of the citizen and country. To rescue the judicial ermine from the lamentable condition into which it has fallen through the association of political with judicial duties, is a duty which is demanded by every consideration of patriotism and care of existing institutions. When the highest judicial officers in the land are permitted to descend into the arena of politics and participate in the wild hunt for office, without incurring impeachment at the hands of Congress or meeting with open rebuke at the hands of the people, it is time for prudent men to despair of the Republic. In the appointment of Judge PEARRE we recognize a determination on the part of the present Administration to contribute all within its power toward this desired reform, inasmuch as his claims rested as well upon his commanding abilities and eminent qualifications, as upon his consistent devotion to the principles of the Republican Party. With a mind unwarped by prejudice, an intellect developed and matured by nearly thirty years of laborious and successful practice at the Bar, and a firm faith in the future of the mighty empire that is fast moulding into form on this continent, he possesses both the ability and the determination to administer the laws fearlessly, faithfully and impartially.

We predict for him a brilliant judicial career, in the course of which we shall expect to see him elevated to the Bench of the Supreme Court of the United States.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE,

gathered from the entire body of English periodical literature, and from the pens or the ablest living writers.
EXTRACTS FROM RECENT NOTICES.
From Rev. Henry Ward Beecher.
Were I, in view of all the competitors that are now in the field, to choose, I should certainly choose THE LIVING AGE. * * Nor is there, in any library that I know of, so much intellectual and entertaining reading in the same number of volumes.
From the Watchman & Reflector, Boston.
The Nation (N. Y.) in saying that THE LIVING AGE is "the best of all our eclectic publications," expresses our own views. It is a model which many have attempted to imitate, but by their failure only made its preeminent merits more conspicuous."

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

A very quiet day at the Exchange yesterday. A number of the regulars were on hand as usual, but no sales were made, nor anything of interest done. There is, in fact, but little probability that anything interesting will be done until after the commencement of the new year. One sale of considerable importance is being talked of, and may possibly be made during the coming week. It is hardly likely, however. The chances are that it will not, and there will be nothing done to disturb the dull monotony of the market until after this year has closed.

FINANCIAL.

SINKING FUND
GOLD BONDS
OF THE
CHICAGO, DANVILLE AND VINCENNES
RAILROAD COMPANY
are offered for sale by Messrs. W. BAILEY LANG & CO., Merchants, No. 54 Cliff-st., New-York.
They are $1,000 Bonds, issued upon a railroad nearly one-half completed, traversing a country unsurpassed by any in the first essentials of a large and profitable business.
They are secured by First Mortgage on 140 miles of this first-class road, its outfit and all present and future acquired property of the Company.
They bear a high rate of interest for a long period of time—SEVEN PER CENT. gold for forty years—and a small ratio to the cash value of the realty upon which they are issued.
They create an interest liability of the Company of only $1,248 per mile, or less than one-third that of some great roads of the country whose bonds have ranked very high.
They are sold only on the completed portion of the road, at the rate of $18,000 per mile. These facts, added to the safeguards thrown around the Bonds, (having the UNION TRUST COMPANY, of New-York, as their Official Register and Transfer Agent,) combine to render these UNEQUALED SECURITIES, and really the most desirable in the market for investment.
The value of the additional One per Cent. for thirty years, at compound interest, would be $961 28, and in forty years $2,003 43 more than that of Government Sixes running the same length of time.
Price at present, 95 and accrued interest from Oct. 1.
Pamphlets, with maps and details, and the Bonds, may be had directly of us, or of our Agents.
Having personally examined this entire line of road, finished and projected, as well as the country through which it runs, we offer these Bonds with every confidence in their full worth and soundness.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

Burning of the St. Nicholas Hotel Laundry — Explosion of a Private Gasometer.

The St. Nicholas Hotel in Broadway, between Broome and Spring streets, was supplied with gas from private works located at No. 61 Mercer-street, at the rear of a four-story brick building used as a laundry for the hotel. Yesterday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, there was an explosion of the material used in the manufacture of this gas. The gasometer had in it at the time about 5,000 cubic feet, and this being involved in the explosion, a shock ensued that drove the employes from the laundry, and from the stables of CHESTER LAMB, Nos. 57 and 59 Mercer-street. Both these buildings were instantly and simultaneously fired, and in a few moments the interior of both were reached by the flames. The huge volumes of smoke arising from the burning buildings gave an impression that a great conflagration was in progress, and even gave rise to a widespread rumor that the St. Nicholas Hotel was being destroyed. Owing to the prompt arrival of the engines and the skill with which they were directed by Engineers PERLEY and BRANDON, the danger was promptly overcome and the fire confined to the two buildings which it first seized. In the stables of LAMB were 300 bales of hay, which burned slowly but persistently, and filled all the interior so densely with smoke as to greatly retard the extinguishment of the flames in other parts of the buildings. When this was at last accomplished it was found that there had been a vast deal more of smoke than fire. The walls of all the buildings were uninjured and the interiors so little damaged that the loss on the stables is estimated at $1,500, and on the laundry at $3,000. The first is owned by E. K. ANTHONY, and the latter by SAMUEL HAWK, proprietor of the St. Nicholas Hotel, whose loss, however, by the destruction of the gas works at the rear, will reach $15,000. At the time of the fire there were about 5,000 pieces of linen belonging to the guests of the hotel in the laundry, the most of which were saved, as were also all the horses and carriages of LAMB. Some of the servants of the hotel occupied rooms on the upper floors of the laundry and lost articles of clothing.

The fire was attended by two casualties, neither, however, being fatal. WILLIAM PORTER, the gas man, who was on the gasometer at the moment of the explosion, was badly burned about the body, and ELLEN SULLIVAN, a cook in the hotel, had her hands and arms burned while endeavoring to rescue her clothing from the laundry. The destruction of the gasometer did not cause any inconvenience to the hotel, as a connection was made with the street pipe and the house supplied with gas from the public works.

The Chamber of Co-operative Industry—An Organization Formed—Plan of Operations Adopted.

A meeting was held last evening at No. 295 Bowery, for the purpose of forming a coöperative organization among the working people of the City. A report was submitted by a committee appointed at a preliminary meeting on the 12th of November, setting forth a plan of operations. After declaring that coöperation is the true method of promoting the interests of the laboring classes, it recommends the organization of a Chamber of Coöperative Industry, with power to call conventions, establish mediums of exchange, form subordinate organizations, and in general, foster and protect the interests of labor. It makes it the duty of the Chamber in time to erect a Mechanics' Institute, with lectures, libraries and other educational appliances; for a bureau of exchange of labor and commodities, to assist laborers to the means of obtaining a livelihood, and to establish an organ of the coöperative movement. Workingmen are also recommended to organize their own institutions of banking, insurance, &c.

The report was adopted, and the following officers chosen: President, Nelson W. Young; Vice-Presidents, Robert Blisert and M. Rosenstock; Recording Secretary, John W. Browning; Corresponding Secretary, J. W. E. Hill; Treasurer, John Wood. The Board of Officers was empowered to appoint a committee to carry into effect the purposes of the organization. Speeches were made by Mr. TREVELLICK, President of the National Labor Union; Mr. CUMMINGS, President of the Knights of St. Crispin in Massachusetts; Mr. DRURY, Mr. HILL, Mr. YOUNG and others.

Meteoric Display.

During the remarkable clearness of the sky Thursday evening and Friday morning, many meteors were seen here and there to speed across the heavens. The number counted from 9 o'clock in the evening to 5 in the morning was thirty. The radiant point was from the star Tau Geminorum. The following were registered: At 9:35 o'clock, one, green in color, equal to Capella, shot thirty degrees north-northeast from a point twenty degrees northeast of Castor; 9:37 o'clock, one, orange red, equal to Jupiter, shot southwest fifteen degrees from a point thirty degrees east-southeast of Jupiter, train ten degrees; 11:40 o'clock, one, white, equal to Jupiter, shot twenty degrees southwest from a point five degrees south of Rigel. From 11 to midnight the auroral light illuminated the northern horizon.
